LICENSING TUG-OF-WAR

Churches, Bars In 'Beer Feud'

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Churches and taverns have long waged the war of the grape, but the battle of the beer has taken a new twist in Milwaukee. Eight Roman Catholic churches have applied for unlimited beer licenses, arousing the wrath of the Wisconsin Tavernkeepers Association. The tavernkeepers filed suit in Circuit Court against the city, the churches and Milwaukee Archbishop William Cousins to block the beer licenses.

"We don't mind if the churches want to tap a keg 25 times a year for their bingo games," said Carl Schetter, executive director of the Tavernkeepers Association. "But with these unlimited licenses they can open up every night." He said the competition for the drinking dollar at church social gatherings has not yet put a dent in barroom tills, but he warned that things could get out of hand.

"What's to keep the churches from starting little clubs where guys stop in for a beer after work?" Schetter said. "I can just see it," he moaned. "Right below the sign that says Sebastian's Congregation, a flashing neon beer sign. With an arrow pointing down. And another sign for the family entrance."

He said the effects could be economically depressing on Milwaukee, affectionately known among natives as Beer town because it produces more of the frothy malt than any other city in the nation. And consumes more than its share. "Look around Milwaukee," Schetter said. "What do we need with a few more taverns? There are more than enough to go around now."

Officials of the churches said they have no intention of competing with taverns; they said the unrestricted beer licenses would simply let them stage their usual bingo games without running down to City Hall for a permit twice a month. "If that's the case, the city should give them an annual permit allowing them to use their beer license 25 times a year. Not unlimited," Schetter said.

Previously, the churches paid $5 for each one-time beer license. They would pay $100 for the unlimited licenses.

"The churches are in direct competition with the tavernkeepers," Schetter said. "It's unfair."

"I don't know what's going to happen. All the churches are going to get in on this as a way to make a buck. And the archbishop will probably excommunicate me."

BINGO AND BEER: This combination of beer and bingo is okay with Carl Schetter, head of Wisconsin Tavernkeepers Association, but he's waging battle against granting fulltime beer licenses to churches. This scene is at St. Mary's Catholic church in a Milwaukee suburb. (AP Wirephoto)

Indians Kill Two FBI Agents

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP) — "It looked like an execution. They were riddled with bullets," South Dakota Atty. Gen. William Janklow said today after two FBI agents were shot to death on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation.

The two FBI agents were dragged out of their cars and killed Thursday when they tried to serve warrants on people who were holed up in a house, authorities said.

An Indian in the house was reported killed in an exchange of gunfire, but it was not known when he was killed.

Federal agents pursued occupants of the house through the hills of the reservation Thursday night, but at 1:30 a.m. the FBI agent in charge of the operation said the gunfire had stopped, "as far as I know."

FBI Special Agent Joseph Trimbach said his men were continuing to patrol the reservation roads, but no arrests had been made.

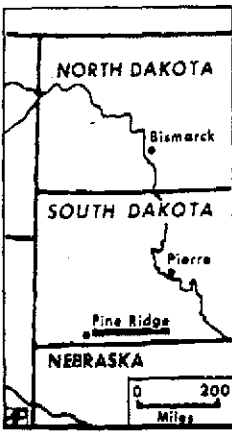

The house where agents Jack R. Coler and Ronald A. Williams were killed is about 5 miles southeast of the reservation community of Oglala, not far from the village of Wounded Knee which militant Indians occupied for 71 days in 1973.

Coler, 28, worked out of the Denver office of the FBI and was on special assignment to the reservation. Williams, also 28, worked out of the FBI office in Rapid City, S.D.

The dead Indian was Joe Robert, about 20, of Oglala, according to a spokesman for the Wounded Knee Legal Defense Committee in Rapid City. The spokesman said there had been some confusion about who was killed but that people who saw the body said the victim was Robert.

Earlier, the Minneapolis Tribune quoted an American Indian Movement source as saying the dead man was Little Joe Killright, 20, of Porcupine. Authorities have refused to say anything about the man's identity.

Jobless Rate Dips In Berrien County

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Berrien county unemployment dropped in May to 15.4 per cent from April's 17.2 per cent — the first decline in Berrien jobless ranks since August, 1974, according to the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

The MESC reported the total number of employed in the county was 66,000 in May, a gain of 2,100 from April.

The drop in unemployment was attributed by MESC to seasonal gains in employment, mainly in non-manufacturing work. Isabel Nutt, manager of the MESC office in St. Joseph, said sources for employment gains were "scattered" and could not be credited to any one industry.

The county's total labor force — the total number of those able to work — increased by 800 during May to 78,000. It thus diminished what would have been a larger drop in the unemployment rate and as a result 1,300 people were listed as leaving the unemployed ranks during May although 2,100 were listed as gaining employment. There are now 12,000 people in Berrien county listed as unemployed.

The May unemployment rate of 15.4 per cent is the same as the unemployment rate for March of 1975. The unemployment rate in Berrien county had been steadily spiraling upward every month since August of 1974 when the unemployment rate was 6.3 per cent with 4,900 unemployed.

A breakdown of some of the unemployment figures in the county include (municipality, followed by number of unemployed and unemployment rate):

City of Benton Harbor, 2,258, 28.7 per cent; Niles township, 875, 16.5 per cent; Benton township, 1,382, 16.3 per cent; City of Niles, 875, 13.7 per cent; Lincoln township, 667, 12.5 per cent; St. Joseph township, 566, 11.8 per cent, and the City of St. Joseph, 663, 11.7 per cent.

SEX A MOTIVE?

Automakers Report Soaring Van Sales

DETROIT (AP) — More and more people are buying van-type trucks. And at least one observer credits sex for the boomlet.

Overall, van sales are up 1.3 per cent over last year, a small increase but noteworthy in light of the industry's overall sales decline of about 18 per cent.

Industry spokesmen say many of the buyers are young people who seem to be turning away from the "muscle cars" of the last 20 years, choosing vans instead.

"A lot of kids put beds in them," said Jerry Milgram, a truck sales manager at a Detroit dealership.

"There's no doubt that they use them for sex. It's obvious that some of them are sex wagons."

Commercial, windowless vans are selling best, and Milgram says young people choose these over more expensive passenger vans and decorate them to taste. Commercial vans start at about $3,300 and passenger vans at about $4,000.

Industry figures show 206,311 vans were sold through June 20, compared with 203,604 for the same period last year.

Chrysler Corp. van sales have shown a decline, with Dodge model vans and the Sportsman model off 5.4 per cent and 23 per cent, respectively. The Plymouth Voyager, however, is up 17.8 per cent.

Actor's Son Kills Himself

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Jonathan Peck, one of five children of actor Gregory Peck, has been found dead of a gunshot wound in the head. Authorities said they believe he committed suicide.

The 30-year-old Peck's body was found at his home Thursday afternoon, police said. There was no suicide note.

He was a reporter for a television station in nearby Santa Maria.

A fellow newsmen who discovered the body said he had no idea why Peck might have killed himself.

The time of death was not immediately determined.

He had not showed up for work since Tuesday afternoon.

Peck, who was single, previously worked for a Los Angeles radio station. He was a graduate of Occidental College and a veteran of the Marine Corps and a former member of the Peace Corps.

Gregory Peck was notified of the death while in France, and he was reported on his way back to Los Angeles today.

Car-Tree Crash Fatal To Dowagiac Man

Traffic accidents in Berrien and Van Buren counties Thursday and early today killed a 21-year-old Dowagiac man and injured 10 other people.

Dead on arrival at 2:55 a.m. today at Benton Harbor Mercy hospital was Thomas J. Reifenberg, 309 West Wayne street, Dowagiac. Berrien sheriff's officers said he was the apparent driver of a compact car that went off Territorial road and struck two trees in Bainbridge township just west of M-140.

His brother Michael P. Reifenberg, 16, same address, was reported in critical condition at Mercy with a concussion, severe cuts and bruises.

Sheriff's officers said Thomas Reifenberg was thrown from the car and it appeared the auto ran over him after striking the trees. A physician said death was caused by massive head injuries.

The death was the 30th in Berrien county traffic this year. At the same time in 1974, 13 persons had lost their lives in Berrien traffic accidents.

In Van Buren county, near Decatur, Richard Smith, 30, 39th street, Paw Paw, and his wife, Carol, 26, were injured when their motorcycle was struck from behind by a car driven by Rachael Robbins, 49, 1901 Thomason street, Niles, according to state police from the Paw Paw post.

Smith's foot was mangled in the crash and was amputated at Borgess hospital in Kalamazoo, state police said. His wife was reported in good condition at the hospital today. She is under observation.

The accident occurred on M-51, at the south edge of the village limits, about 4:30 p.m. when the Smith motorcycle, being operated by Mrs. Smith, veered in front of the Robbins

Niles Bar Owner Wins $200,000

BLISSFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Julia Orsborn, a 54-year-old tavern owner from Niles, Mich., won the top $200,000 prize Thursday in the Michigan Lottery Superdrawing.

She said she would use part of the money "to pay off bills" and share the rest with her brother and two daughters.

Mrs. Orsborn, a widow, said she hoped her daughters would use their shares to further their educations.

The winning of the prize in the drawing at Blissfield flew in the face of her doctor's orders.

"He told me to take it easy," she said.

Winning the second-place prize of $25,000 was self-employed naval architect Robert W. Scripps, 55, of Grosse Pointe Farms.

The three $10,000 prizes went to: Mary LaRue, 88, of Bay City, a widow; Audrey Morocco, 39, of Southfield, an assistant office manager, and Samuel Shift-man, 49, also of Southfield, a salesman.

There was no $50,000 prize this week, lottery officials said.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Waste Of $14 Million Comes As No Surprise

After six years and $14 million in grants, the Benton Harbor-Benton township Model Cities program is coming to an end.

What has the program spawned in Lyndon Johnson's Great Society days done for the local community?

Not much, if you believe the man who directed it.

In solving problems of crime and unemployment, in getting local citizens involved, it hasn't worked, says Melvin Farmer Jr.

Farmer's comments were published in this newspaper Thursday in an interview with Staff Writer Ralph Lutz. Farmer credited the program with trying "innovative" solutions to social problems that couldn't have been undertaken without federal funding. But aside from a couple small buildings and a spot of paving, he found little to cheer about.

His forthright comment has to go down in history as the most honest, candid statement from a public official since City Founder Sterne Brunson cussed the muskrats in the Paw Paw river basin for eating his cabbage.

But even if Farmer were not a forthright type guy, he'd have difficulty trying to justify the vast expenditures of tax money on the Model Cities program. It's very visible after six years of Model Cities spending that the involved neighborhoods are worse off than before.

Business has flown. Crime is still up. Unemployment is higher. Physically, the residential areas that were supposed to be improved, have only grown more down at the heels.

Staff Writer Lutz noted that the $14 million poured down the drain on Model Cities could have built a new senior high school for the Benton Harbor district. Or it could have financed a major new industry. Or bailed out a former big employer — Benton Harbor Malleable — several times over.

Any such alternative use of the money would have been infinitely better, more productive.

No one should be surprised that Model Cities failed. It's based on the same false premise underlying the most colossal failure of all: the nation's welfare system.

The false premise is the bleeding-heart concept that giving away money will do anything: turn wastrels into workers, turn criminals into saints, turn illiterates into paragons of culture and training.

Money can work wonders if it's used to give people opportunities.

But given as a payoff, it only hardens the anti-social attitudes of the very people who are supposed to be uplifted.

READER DISAGREES WITH CRASH STORY

I was very disgusted after reading the article entitled "Colonia Township Crash Hurts Nine" that appeared in the Monday, June 23, 1975, edition of the paper on page three.

I would like to know who the witnesses were that supposedly saw the accident occur so I can make them an appointment to have their eyes examined. The article stated that witnesses saw the young man from Lake Michigan Beach hit an oncoming car in the side. This is not true. The car was hit head on. Many of the facts were omitted making the youth look bad.

After reading this bullroar story I can't help but wonder how much truth there really is to any of the articles. Cheryl J. Forrest

EDITOR'S NOTE: The report filed by Deputy P. J. Caveness said: "Witnesses stated that Vch. 1 appeared to be racing with another Vch. at a high rate of speed — west bound on Red Arrow — passing other vehicles — and Vch. 1 lost control — ran off right side of road — came back across the road and hit Vch. 2 in left side." Vch. 1 was driven by "the young man from Lake Michigan Beach." The accident report did not name the witnesses. A diagram of the accident also indicates Vch. 2 was hit in the side.

FOR WANT OF LIDS, SALES ARE LOST

The following letter was sent to Mrs. Virginia Knauer, Spec. Asst. to the President for Consumer Affairs, Ball Corporation, Edward Hutchinson and Governor Milliken:

Producing both fruits and vegetables for sale to the consumer directly from the fields has established us in a rather unique position. Our customers pick approximately 800,000 pounds of our produce then process it is their homes for later use. Abortion Issue Has Two Sides

WASHINGTON — The word from the National Right to Life Committee is that 1.2 million abortions will be performed in America this year — 300,000 more than the last annual count and perhaps a million more than in any of the 197 years prior to the 1973 Supreme Court decision liberalizing applicable laws.

The sum presumably accurate, calls for pause.

I have been, for all my adult life, in favor of abortion on demand — my reason being pragmatic. Women not wanting babies will do almost anything to rid themselves of the burdens, and putting laws in their way is mean logic. I once visited the results of a teenager who tried to terminate her pregnancy with a dose of household chemicals. Her funeral was awful, her mother loudly admitting in sobs that she had refused the girl the money to seek an illegal abortion for fear of the immorality involved.

I remain firm on pragmatism. But I confess as well that the magnitude of the estimated number of abortions this year, in the name of anything, is disquieting. Abortion has become a major branch of the medical industry and at the same time is sliding into the recesses of our collective conscience. Instead of tolerating it necessarily while we search for moral and practical alternatives, we seem to be deciding it as the ultimate solution.

We are making this decision, furthermore, not by common sense but by uncommon intellectualism, the easier way to do it since the process involves perceptive argument which while impossible to prove cannot be dismissed either. There us, after all, a philosophical fundamental in the idea, say, that a woman has a right to do with her body as she pleases. Women do not have this right, of course, nor do men, as witness the laws against suicide or the use of some drugs or the dodging of the wartime draft. But even if sovereignty over the body is a myth the argument has humanistic elements — the rights of being over an unbeing — that are more comfortably considered than is the emotional spectrum of morality.

What is wrong with the super-sophistication approach to the abortion question is that it tends to go beyond the capacity of many involved to understand. When does life begin? Logarithmic answers, of whatever exhaustion, mean nothing.

One recalls the utilitarian view of the Germans during Hitler's regime when science was used to expedite the removal of unwanted from the Reich. An American medical expert at the Nuremberg trials, Dr. Leo Alexander, wrote this of the Nazis' casual concept of responsibility: "Whatever proportions their crimes finally assumed, it is evident to all who investigated them that they had started from small beginnings ... a subtle shift in emphasis in the basic attitude of physicians. It started with the acceptance of the attitude that there is such a thing as life not worthy to be lived."

For any who care to see, "the subtle shift in emphasis" may have occurred in America as it did in Germany. But less than many seem to worry. Before it's too late, perhaps we should at least own up to the truth. Keep abortion reasonably attainable, if that is our consensus, but call it for what it is: slaughter. To continue to do otherwise, for the purpose of making the issue palatable, puts us in a sense on the road back to the caves.

Don't Blame U.S. Farmer For The High Food Prices

No one can deny that food prices have gone up. They have — by about 64 per cent between 1953 and 1973. But during the same period, wages increased more than 142 per cent.

Moreover, Americans are spending a smaller percentage of their incomes on food than they did a couple of decades ago. In 1953, food took about 22 per cent of disposable income. In 1973, it was down to 16 per cent, and the Department of Commerce estimates it was 16.7 per cent in 1974, despite the fact that the consumer price index — the cost of everything — rose nearly 12 per cent.

Man Is A Puny Adversary

What do the walking catfish, kudzu, starling and Africanized honeybee have in common? All are pests which were unknown in this hemisphere before well-intentioned persons introduced them here, in some cases accidentally.

For years the kudzu plant and walking catfish have been particularly troublesome in the southeastern states. The starling's nuisance value is more widespread. And now we have the Africanized honeybee heading this way from South America, where a geneticist trying to develop a super honeybee lost a few dozen experimental bees in 1957.

Since then the highly aggressive bees have been spreading rapidly and are heading northward. When the natural balance is upset, man finds himself a puny adversary.

This is less than in any other country. Worldwide, the percentage of income spent on food runs between 30 and 60 per cent.

According to a report by The Conference Board, a New York based economic research organization, total consumer spending (after inflation is subtracted) rose $350 billion, or 75 per cent, in the United States between 1960 and 1973. And while 9 per cent of that increased spending went for food, this compares with 14.5 per cent more spent on luxuries and 15 per cent more spent on automobiles.

Nevertheless, everyone thinks food prices are too high and that somebody is getting rich because of it.

Well, it's not the farmer, according to one source. While farm income has gone up in recent years, it is still low, says F. L. Wooten, vice president of Kaiser Agricultural Chemicals.

In 1971, median income for all U.S. families was $10,285, he says, but for farm families (and 98 per cent of all farms are family operations) it was $5,712. In 1973, farmers earned approximately $3,300 per person, but national per capita income was $5,000.

Then where is the food dollar going?

The farmer receives less than half the money spent for food, says Wooten. In 1973, he got 46 per cent of each food dollar; in 1974, 42 per cent. All indications are that it will be even less this year. The remainder goes for transportation, processing and retailing.

America's farmers remain the world's most productive, feeding more than a quarter of the earth's population. They have played a large part in improving the nation's balance of payments situation and are constantly working to achieve greater efficiency.

For example, in 1960 there were 7.9 million farm workers, each supplying enough food for 25 other persons. In 1974, there were only 4.3 million farm workers, but each provided enough food for himself and 50 additional people.

None of these statistics may do much to ease the pain one experiences while strolling down the supermarket aisle, but at least they may help to put things in better perspective.

Do You REMEMBER?

— 10 Years Ago —

Almost a full month of activities is planned for the 1985 New Buffalo-Chicago Great Lakes Regatta. Starting on July 6, the festivities for boating fans will end August 1. In 1964, the first year of the regatta, the 96.33-mile marathon boat run from New Buffalo to Chicago and back was won by Florida race drivers Odel Lewis and Mike Ramsey.

— 25 Years Ago —

Buchanan city commissioners last night approved the appointment of Jack Krugh as chief of police. Krugh had been appointed by city manager, Leland Gunn. The new chief will take over the force on July 1.

Benton Harbor's business houses generally will close all day next Saturday, July 4. While the 4th this year falls on a busy shopping day, the city's retail establishments have decided that they will close in observance of the holiday. This will mean that Friday will have to be Saturday shopping day for next week.

Fred Null, director of the St. Joseph City band, announced today that the Sunday afternoon band concerts hereafter will begin at 12:45 p.m. for the benefit of Chicago excursionists who come on boats, which operate on fast time.

— 75 Years Ago —

Fire damaged the Bauschke carriage factory on West Main street, Benton Harbor, today at noon and a serious conflagration was narrowly averted. The fire department promptly responded and the blaze was extinguished in a short time.

The first big trolley ride of the season was given Tuesday night by Miss Georgia E. Morrow of Benton Harbor in honor of Miss Verna Horton, of Chicago, and according to instructions on the invitations the guests, "laughed and were jolly." The pretty and commodious new eight wheeled excursion car was formally dedicated to the season's pleasure by this party and the event was certainly delightful. Nearly sixty young people took possession of the excursion motor and the ride to St. Joseph and back was cool and refreshing. The Morrow lawn was cozily set with hammocks and pillowed seats.

American People Are Interested

WASHINGTON — Political leaders are fond of explaining that they are forced to fib and employ tacky gimmicks because the voters are so indifferent they just won't listen to serious debate on serious and complicated issues.

So how come then a radio program called "National Town Meeting" is so popular?

The weekly show, now in its second year, consists of a brief discussion of some current issue by two or more nationally-recognized figures, followed by nearly an hour of questions from the local audience. Its public reception, at least to this cynical columnist's way of thinking, has been phenomenal.

Even the show's founder, former White House counsel Fred Dutton, is surprised at its success. "We have hit a real need," he says. "People are hungry for a sense of participation in the institutions and events that shape their lives."

The whole operation is relatively low-key, but the standards of either big-time politics or broadcasting. Advertising for each week's show consists mostly of posters planted around town, selective mailings and a newspaper ad the previous day. The show is broadcast over National Public Radio's 170-member stations and to the Associated Press subscriber stations, without much publicity fanfare.

Yet the attendance at each week's performance has generally been greater than the crowds that appear for some national television network shows.

Last week's show filled the Eisenhower Theater of the Kennedy Center nearly to its capacity of more than 1,000. The featured personalities were Reps. Charles Wiggins, (R-Calif.) and Barbara Jordan, (D-Tex.), both of whom are members of the Judiciary Committee which voted to impeach former President Nixon; and Sen. John Tunney, (D-Calif.), chairman of the Constitutional Rights sub-committee. Their unexciting subject was, "How Well Is the Supreme Court Functioning?"

As Jordan observed wryly, "I think it is difficult for the public to get a handle on the Supreme Court." She got a big laugh.

After an hour's conversation, the question remained unanswered. Wiggins and Jordan conducted a spirited, if traditional, argument about whether the Court should be more aggressive in interpreting social policy or should stick to the strict dictates of the Constitution. Tunney was resigned to a restrained Court, at least with the current majority, and urged an expanded Congressional role instead.

Questioners raised the recent controversial Court decision affecting parochial school aid, abortion, and school integration. Somebody wanted to know why Supreme Court Justices got to sit on the bench for their lifetimes. Another person asked why there appeared to be one standard of justice for a President and another for the rest of us.

The panelists, frankly, weren't very enlightening. They tossed out opinions, which sometimes made sense and sometimes didn't. They were occasionally witty. (Question: "What do you do if the Supreme Court denies your writ of certiorari?" Tunney: "You cry a lot.")

It is doubtful that these in the audience left knowing any more about the Supreme Court than they had when they arrived. But a bunch of ordinary citizens had played press conference on a subject of national significance and seemed gratified to have merely had the experience.

Future Town Meeting sessions will discuss whether government employees should have the right to unionize, if business should be extended or reduced, what the energy policy looks like, and how television affects children. They are held each Wednesday morning and rebroadcast later.

And, oh, yes, the show is always free.

Festival Singers To Help Open SJ Concert Season

St. Joseph Municipal band and Festival Singers from Michigan Lutheran high school will open the 1975 summer series of concerts 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

The two musical organizations will break the silence of the bandshell when Director John E. N. Howard calls on his musicians "To Strike Up the Band." That is the theme song of the band.

The concerts are presented from the last Sunday in June to Labor Day. Independence day is also a concert date.

The bandshell is located on Port street near Lake boulevard in the City of St. Joseph. Its setting is a bluff overlooking the St. Joseph harbor. The bandshell is named after Director Howard who has directed the band for over a quarter of a century.

Selections on the opening day will include "Zampa" by L.J.F. Herold; "Oklahoma" by Richard Rodgers plus rhythms of the tango, circus and military.

The band program is liberally sprinkled with requests by listeners. After each concert Howard holds court on the bandshell podium to receive requests.

The Festival singers, under the direction of Ronald Pape, will present a concert of patriotic tunes and a medley of American armed forces songs.

The Festival Singers was organized four years ago.

Members are chosen in September by audition. Rehearsal is outside of and in addition to the regular school day. Each must maintain all academic eligibility requirements that are standard for all extracurricular activities, Pape said.

Members of the Singers include Debbie Leng, Donna Pjesky, Pam Biedenbender and Barbara Brenner, sopranos; Jean Pape, Lori Lane, Rachel Frier and Laura Krieger, altos; Warren Skoda, Michael Biedenbender, Roger Kramp and Karl Kroening, tenors and Fred Krieger, Peter Sando, Jeff Breinling and Mark Brenner, basses. Accompanists are Debbie Rach and Randy Cochran.

SINGERS SING SUNDAY TO OPEN SEASON: Festival Singers of Michigan Lutheran High school will help the St. Joseph Municipal band open the 1975 concert season Sunday. The 16-voice choir is under the direction of Ronald Pape. Concerts in the bandshell will be at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m.

UNITED WAY GOAL IS $730,000

$48,200 'Collection Loss' Included In Budget

LION OF YEAR: Dale Kreitner, Kaiser road, Coloma, last night was named Coloma Lion of the Year. Kreitner was selected for his contributions to Coloma club. He has been member of the club for four years.

A goal of $730,000 was set for the 1975 Blossomland United Way campaign Thursday by directors of the community-supported fund, according to Mrs. Marion Hughes, vice president.

Mrs. Hughes said the goal represents a 4.6 per cent increase over the amount raised in 1974. The new goal, highest ever for local United Way volunteers, includes $48,200 for collection loss.

Conrad Greim, allocations chairman, indicated all agencies had been asked to present bare-bone budgets in view of the high unemployment level in Berrien county. New and expanded programs in several agencies, plus inflationary costs of operations accounted for most of the increases, Greim said.

Robert Molhoek, 1975 general campaign chairman, reviewed the conclusions of campaign division leaders after their assessment of potential pledges in the United Way area. The goal was established by the directors after recommendations of both the allocations and campaign committees were heard. Final allocations to the agencies will be posted following the fall campaign.

In a special report to the board, Greim reviewed current payments on the 1974 pledges. The present rate of collections indicates that the original uncollectible prediction will be $23,399 short. To compensate for this loss caused by the downturn in employment, Greim asked for and received a 4.75 per cent reduction in total 1975 allocations.

Greim said that many communities in Michigan have had to re-allocate this year with some areas experiencing cutbacks of 20 per cent and higher. Blossomland United Way area support on the other hand is holding comparatively well despite recession imposed financial problems.

Jim F. Miller, director of the information and referral office, reported a gradual expansion of service to newly unemployed persons in the community. A new brochure will be released soon describing sources of local help.

UNITED WAY GOAL SET: Mrs. Marion Hughes, vice president of Blossomland United Way, reviews $730,000 goal set Thursday for 1975 fall campaign with Robert Molhoek, general campaign chairman, and Conrad Greim, right, chairman of the BUW allocations committee. The goal, highest yet for annual fund solicitation, represents a 4.5 per cent increase over 1974's over-the-top achievement.

Shoppers Fair Here To Close Its Doors

The Shoppers Fair department store in Benton township will close by the end of July because of the financial condition of its parent company, according to Robert Sabourin, manager of the store.

Sabourin said the store, located at 1800 M-139, south of Benton Harbor, will close about July 31 when the store's inventory has been liquidated.

Shoppers Fair stores across the nation are closing because their parent company, Mangel Stores Corporation, is in bankruptcy proceedings. The 10 stores that are still operating across the nation are all closing, Sabourin said.

The Benton township store was leased by Shoppers Fair, according to Sabourin, and the lease will be terminated under terms of the bankruptcy. The building is owned by a man from New York, he said.

There are three Shoppers Fair stores in Michigan. Other stores in Holland and Battle Creek are also closing.

In addition to the 10 Shoppers Fair stores, Mangel Stores Corporation, headquartered in New York, is also closing its chain of 65 Mangel Dress Shops located across the nation.

Planners Run Out Of Work

The Benton township planning commission almost found itself without business last night when the only item on the agenda was canceled.

The township planners were scheduled to consider a request for a lot split by Jennell R. Kalebic. Chairman James Benson reported the request was postponed because of litigation in probate court involving the parcel of land on M-139.

Also last night a possible ordinance change was tabled for further study by the ordinance review committee headed by Commissioner Dr. Charles Duncan. Benson said the ordinance change would allow special permits to be granted by the township board of appeals instead of the township planning board.

Win Positions At Girls State

OLIVET — Two southwestern Michigan girls were elected to fill offices in the annual Girls State program at Olivet college here June 14-21.

Sue Kundel, Stevensville, was elected a representative in the mock state house of representatives. Gina Gonzalez, St. Joseph, was elected to a mock county commissioner office.

Glen and Linda Jones are owners of the House of Picture Frames that is observing grand opening at Fairplain Plaza. They were identified erroneously in yesterday's newspaper as Glen and Linda Nelson.

Second Lininger Son Receives Medical Degree

James F. Lininger has become the second son of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Lininger, St. Joseph, to receive his doctor of medicine degree.

Dr. Lininger, 26, received his medical degree this spring from the University of Michigan's Medical school and is to begin a four-year residency in pathology at the University of Colorado Medical center in Denver.

He received his bachelor of science degree from DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind.

The Liningers, 2712 Highland court, St. Joseph, have two other sons in medicine.

Dr. Thomas Lininger, 29, received his doctor of medicine degree from the University of Michigan in 1972 and is now taking his residency in internal medicine at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn.

The couple's youngest son, John, 23, has completed his first year in medical school at the University of Michigan.

AIM Leader Bound Over For Trial

MANDAN, N.D. (AP) — American Indian Movement leader Russell Means has been ordered bound over to Morton County District Court on an aggravated assault charge.

Judge William Engeller of the Morton County Court of Increased Jurisdiction bound Means over Thursday for trial and continued the $25,000 personal recognizance bond under which he is currently free. No trial date was set.

Means is accused of striking Arlen Hettick of Mandan with a rifle butt at a Fort Rice bar on June 7. The AIM leader also faces federal charges of interfering with a Bureau of Indian Affairs officer in a separate incident. Means was hospitalized for treatment of a bullet wound he suffered in the altercation with the BIA officer.

Mayor To Host Women's Luncheon

Benton Harbor Mayor Charles F. Joseph will host a luncheon Saturday in honor of black women in observance of Black Women's Week, June 23-28.

The luncheon will be at noon at Benton Harbor Holiday Inn with the theme "We Appreciate You." Proclamations from Gov. William Milliken and Joseph will be read on Black Women's Week, and Joseph will speak on "The Black Woman, Rock of Ages."

The mayor's proclamation says in part: "The Black Woman, our rock of ages, standing steadfast against the tides of trouble, the rancor of racism and the bitter winds of benign neglect, is weathered by experience and withered by the heavy burden of being overworked, oppressed and ignored."

"And through this, she has held her head high with pride and tolerance, dignity and endurance to mark our history and move into the future with progress and integrity."

The public is invited to the luncheon. Cost is $4.

4-H Car Wash

The Four Helpers 4-H club will have a car wash Saturday at the Phillips 66 service station, M-139, Fairplain Plaza from 10 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Donations are $1.50 and $1.75.

Two St. Joe U-M Students Do Washington 'Intern' Study

Two St. Joseph women, juniors at the University of Michigan, are doing research work this summer in two Washington organizations.

Dair S. Deckert, daughter of

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Deckert, 2813 Lakeview, is with the Center for the Study of Responsive Law. Elizabeth S. Runyan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Runyan, 848 Wisconsin avenue, is with the Department of Agriculture.

They are among 58 University of Michigan undergraduates enrolled in New York and Washington internship programs.

Founded in 1970, the Washington internships offer participants an "insider's view" of the operations of the U.S. government. The interns work at the Consumer Protection agency, National League of Cities, United Auto Workers, National Organization for Women, Knight Newspapers, government bureaus and for 15 congressmen.

The New York internships were initiated in 1974 to expose liberal arts students to the variety of career options open to them in business. New York interns are paid. Washington interns are not.

Miss Deckert and Miss Runyan are 1973 graduates of St. Joseph high school.

Mrs. Whitfield and her husband, William, and their children, James and Crispin, also reside in Benton Harbor.

Mrs. Whitfield is assistant principal at the Fairplain seventh and eighth grade center of the Benton Harbor school district. She received her bachelor and master of arts degrees from Western Michigan university.

Nurses Dress Peacock Pretty

Modern 'Nightingales'

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Today's "nightingales" have come a long way since that famous socially prominent English nurse, "The Lady of the Lamp," launched nursing during the mid 1800s. The modern nurse is still as hard-working as her early predecessors but singing the what-to-wear blues is definitely not one of her problems.

This summer, for example, "nightingales" will be peacock pretty in a panorama of pantsuits. Tunic tops feature yokes, nips and tucks. They are wrapped, shaped to a T and some are smocked, edged with lace, flattered with embroidery. Nurse dresses are snappy with plenty of shape and drape and made super-feminine with new fashion touches such as sunburst tucking, bibbed bodices, portrait collars, ruffles, crochet, smocking and eyelid embroidery. There's new interest in sleeves that vary from perky, short puffs to tailored shirt styles. Each season the "pro in white" has a myriad choice of uniform styles — easily 100 new ones.

But that wasn't always the case. One of the first fashion break-throughs didn't occur until 1876 when one Miss Euphemia Van Rensselaer showed up at Bellevue Hospital, in New York, snappily attired in a dress of blue and white stripes, a white apron and a perky cap. Repulsed by the drab housedress approach to uniforms the young socialite decided to make her own. She was so successful that her peers immediately followed suit and the blue and white stripes still is the classic undergraduate uniform. The perky headgear remains the prototype of the "graduate cap."

The business of nurses uniforms started about 1915. By about the mid '20s, the original company began to build its fashion image as the "couture - of - the - corridors" by bringing out the first nonconformist uniforms. The flapper was emerging, so they lifted hemlines, dropped waistlines and pleated skirts and launched the first high-fashion nurses uniforms.

In the '70s it remains one of the largest and most successful uniform companies in the world.

A company spokesman points out, "Our design-scope is amazing. Few people realize that we employ a bigger design staff than many of the large Seventh Avenue dress companies. Our group consists of five creative designers, all with experience in the high fashion couture houses. Fabrics for uniforms now show a strong preference for color-contrast tops with white pants especially by geriatric and pediatric nursing staffs and medical technicians.

They come in easy-care, long-wearing knits or woven fabrics, in blends of polyester and cotton — "a far cry," Lapin says, "from the materials that once kept nurses practically chained to the wash tub and ironing board after long hours of duty."

TODAY'S STYLES: Today's 'Nightingales' won't be singing the what-to-wear blues. New style features ruffle trim Chelsea collar and bodice, shoulder puffed sleeves, of knit jersey, polyester, and nylon.

NATIONAL CHHD HONORS ST. JOSEPH WOMAN

100,000 Americans Have Huntington's Disease

By ANITA SMITH
Staff Writer

Mrs. Paul (Barb) Clausen, St. Joseph, who until 10 years ago was unfamiliar with Huntington's disease, has been honored by the National Committee to Combat Huntington's (chorea) disease (CHHD) for her efforts on their behalf through the Battle Creek chapter.

According to Mrs. Clausen, Huntington's disease (HD), is not uncommon, but is often diagnosed by doctors as multiple sclerosis, epilepsy, Parkinson's disease and sometimes alcoholism. There are approximately 100,000 Americans afflicted with the disease.

Mrs. Clausen became personally involved with the fight against the disease 10 years ago when her husband was diagnosed as one of its victims.

Her husband is an ordained Church of God minister but has served a pastorate for only 2½ years and the remainder of the time a minister of music. He has also been a substitute teacher in music and history.

Long involved with music, the Rev. Clausen toured with Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians during 1957 presenting more than 100 concerts.

According to Mrs. Clausen, her husband was a member of a gospel quartet when it auditioned for Waring. It toured with Waring as members of the "Glory Voices," the quartet.

While he was with the group, it sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" at the White House where it received a standing ovation and performed for the late President Dwight Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth of England. The quartet also made albums for Capitol records. Clausen sang for 17 years with the quartet which also performed on the Church of God national radio broadcast.

According to Mrs. Clausen, the quartet and friends held a benefit concert last June at Anderson college, Anderson, Ind., in her husband's name. They hoped to raise $1,000 to donate to CHHD for research but instead raised $5,000 which was all donated.

The Rev. Clausen has been hospitalized with the disease for seven years and has been a patient in the chronic medical ward at Kalamazoo State hospital since 1970.

According to Mrs. Clausen, her husband's mother and two sisters have been fatal victims of the disease.

She says that some of the early signs of HD are severe fatigue, depression, indifference, irritability, poor judgment and loss of memory. Later it may be noticed in the victim's speech and walk.

HD often damages the brain tissue which controls muscular movements, or in areas for thinking, or in both, according to the National Institute of Health.

HD victims have a life expectancy of 5 to 20 years and often die of pneumonia or choking as a result of the deterioration of the body rather than the disease itself she said.

Mrs. Clausen said that HD, which is often called one of the worst heredity diseases, is a genetic disease brought to this country from England by early Massachusetts settlers around 1600's.

She said there is evidence that some of the victims of the Salem Witch Trials were actually HD cases. Because of their jerking and twitching movements, they were believed to be possessed by devils.

In 1872, George Huntington, an American doctor began his study of the disease. "He recommended as the distinguishing name, hereditary chorea because he showed how this kind of chorea was passed on from parent to child," according to the National Institute of Health.

Mrs. Clausen said that each child of a HD parent has a 50-50 chance of inheriting the disease. If the disease does skip a generation, the grandchildren will not be affected.

According to CHHD, the disease does not usually show up until between ages 30 and 45. By then the defective gene may have been passed on to children and possibly grandchildren.

The National Institute of Health says, "Rarely the first symptoms of HD appear in childhood. Extremely rarely, a person is 70 or over before symptoms appear. If symptoms have not appeared by age 35, the probability that a person has HD grows less with each year of later life."

Mrs. Clausen says the CHHD urges children of HD victims not to have children until a control for the disease has been discovered.

According to CHHD, "There are already medications that help control some symptoms and many investigators feel that they are very close to even better controls."

Mrs. Clausen said that researchers are now working on a drug called "GABA" which may be used as a control for HD as "L-Dopa" is to Parkinson's disease and insulin is to diabetes. Researchers have come a long way in the past few years and they hope soon to be able to control the disease.

HD researchers receive no federal funding, according to Mrs. Clausen, but operate on donations only. Funds were allotted in the National Health bill which was recently vetoed by President Ford she said.

CHHD was founded seven years ago with four families by Marjorie Guthrie upon the death of her husband, Woodie Guthrie, famous composer and folksinger and victim of HD.

Mrs. Clausen was a member of the Grand Rapids chapter before the Battle Creek chapter was started.

She says they meet every two months and assist families of HD victims obtain proper diagnosis and offer financial assistance. They also attempt to make the public aware of the disease and share each other's experiences. Most families of HD victims find it difficult to talk about. She said HD is hardest on children of victims.

The Battle Creek chapter, which serves southwestern Michigan, will sponsor a tag sale in the town cities Saturday, June 28. Proceeds will go to research programs.

Mrs. Clausen is a member of the science liaison committee and is responsible for obtaining brain tissue from deceased HD victims and transporting it to a research program at Wayne State university.

She said the chapter has just obtained a 30-minute film on the disease which is available to organizations.

Mrs. Clausen is a public affairs assistant and researcher at Whirlpool Corporation's Administrative Center, Benton Harbor, where she has been employed 10 years.

'Moses, The Lawgiver:' Religious TV Series

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — What is this mystery? Who is this unseen God that lances the inner conscience? That speaks from a fire that burns but does not consume? "What is his name?" asked the ancient Moses, who early grappled with the question.

"I am who I am," came the strangely nebulous answer.

The question still persists among people today, and it is raised anew in an unusual television series, "Moses — The Lawgiver," started last weekend and continuing for a total of six weeks each Saturday night on the CBS network.

It perpetuates the old question, leaving the answer up to the viewers' interpretation.

For example, various extraordinary events, such as the Israelites' crossing of the Red Sea in their flight for freedom from Egypt, can be seen either as miraculous interventions of God or as unusual natural phenomena — as sudden winds and tides.

It is presented so as to have "a rational explanation for non-believers and to be the result of supernatural intervention for the believers," says Italian director Gianfranco De Bosio.

In the same way, in portraying Biblical accounts of God speaking to Moses, the Bible "is followed, but there is room also for a psychological interpretation," De Bosio says. "The words may be a way chosen by God to manifest himself, as much as they are a manifestation of Moses' subconscious."

"To each, his own beliefs."

The lead actor, Burl Lancaster, registered that same ambivalence, in personal terms.

At a reception following a preview of a portion of the series, he recalled that he once taught a Protestant Sunday school class, adding, "But I'm not an orthodox religious person. I don't believe in God necessarily, but I do have a human set of values and ideals."

As to where they originated, it was the experience of Moses, the Israelites and ensuing prophets and Jesus that first brought out the central values of human civilization, ascribing them to a creative source of life, to God.

Actor Lancaster said the television series, in the making for two years, "is the best thing I've done in any religious film. It's the loveliest, most honest and most exciting."

"We followed the Bible very closely," he said. "We didn't try to do any gimmicks."

As for his portrayal of Moses, Lancaster said he saw the founding Israel leader as "a simple, ordinary, insecure, rather frightened person, groping with universal problems of tyranny and freedom."

"Instead of offering some grandiose image of him in the Cecil B. De Mille style, Moses is tormented by dissatisfactions and questions."

That characteristic matches the realism of Biblical descriptions in which Moses has his moments of doubts and uncertainties, as well as his tough convictions against heavy odds.

"You're mad," a complainer accuses him as his people confront desert hardships in the television presentation.

"Our Lord is mad," Moses retorts.

British novelist Anthony Burgess, who worked on the script, says Moses is "a modern character...a prototype of mankind. His journey is symbolic. It is a search for God through hardships, doubts and uncertainties. It is the history of mankind itself."

Of the remarkable saving events that occur, Moses says in the televised account: "A miracle is something you need happening when you need it."

MR. AND MRS. ROLAND PEARL

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Pearl, 4840 Empire, Benton Harbor, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at a dinner June 15 at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Pearl, Sister Lakes.

Pearl and the former Olive Cronk were married June 16, 1915, by the Rev. Curry, pastor of the First Baptist church, Benton Harbor, at the home of the bride's parents.

Pearl is a retired farmer.

The couple has two grandsons.

They are members of the Berrien County Farm Bureau.

Vitamin C
'Dries Up'

Does Vitamin C really prevent colds? Recent studies indicate that Vitamin C may appear to lessen the severity or symptoms of a cold, since it acts like an antihistamine in that it has a drying effect, but it has not been shown to prevent or reduce the frequency of colds.

Also, most authorities do not approve of taking massive doses of Vitamin C since the excess amounts must be excreted in the urine and can sometimes result in the formation of kidney stones.

Expectant Parents
Classes Planned

An instruction program for expectant parents will be offered at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, in cooperation with local physicians beginning Tuesday, July 1.

The first session will meet in the hospital's Forum at 7:30 p.m.

There is no charge for the six-week course. Participants may register at the first session.

Relaxation classes will be offered to those wives with a written order from their physicians. Dates and times will be announced at the expectant parents class.

'Y' Schedules
Drop-In Program

St. Joseph-Benton Harbor YWCA will sponsor a "Drop-In" program for the youth of the area Mondays and Tuesdays.

Summer
Hours

Summer hours for the St. Joseph-Benton Harbor YWCA have been announced by Maureen Cole Pedersen, executive director.

Hours Monday through Thursday will be 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Friday from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The "Y" will be closed Saturdays and Sundays during the summer, unless a scheduled event is taking place.

beginning June 30 and continuing through Aug. 19.

The program, to be held from 1 to 5 p.m., is part of the YW-

CA's continuing effort to fill the needs of the community, according to Kate Schwede, YWCA staff member in charge of the program. It is designed to provide neighborhood youth with a place to be, to visit with friends, play pool, table tennis and other games, Schwede says.

"Drop-In," she says, is for young people old enough to go and come and be responsible for themselves.

No registration is necessary and there will be no charge other than the yearly membership of $1 or $2, depending on the age of the young person.

The YWCA is a participating member of Blossomland United Way.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Talk Of Sex Revolts Reader

I refuse to start my letter by addressing you as "Dear Ann Landers." You are NOT dear to me. In fact, I think you must be either a nut or a Communist.

The letter you printed recently about the wedding night of two people who had had no previous sex experience was downright pornographic.

Don't you realize that young children read your column, and teenagers, also? To think you would print a letter by a lunatic who thought inexperience and clumsiness on a wedding night was a big laugh is beyond belief. Sex belongs in the bedroom, behind locked doors, not in a family newspaper.

The Communists are trying to destroy the morals of our youth and I believe either you are in cahoots with them or are being duped into doing their dirty work. If this letter gets into the paper, I'll eat my hat, but at least I got this off my chest. — Revolted Lady dearie.

Dear Rev: Start nibbling,

Sex is a part of life and life is what this column is all about.

If you find my column disgusting, please don't read it anymore. It's probably bad for your digestion and your blood pressure. I don't want to be responsible for heartburn or, heaven forbid, a stroke. So goodbye, honey. I'll miss you.

Cure Suggested

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this for the young girl who couldn't eat in the presence of her boyfriend. She became ill and it was very embarrassing, so she quit trying.

Her problem is, of course, tension. She gets muscle spasms at the bottom of the esophagus where the food enters the stomach. If she will refrain from drinking cold water, and instead drink hot water or tea, it will relax this muscle and before she knows it she'll be able to eat small amounts of food.

The girl should start by taking tiny bites and then a few swallows of a hot liquid. When she sees she can handle small amounts of food, she will become more confident and eventually overcome her difficulty.

I had the same trouble years ago and my doctor worked out this solution for me. — Glad To Share

Dear Glad: Thank you in behalf of that young girl and others who can't eat a bite of food while under tension. I never realized so many people had the problem until her letter appeared.

Your doctor's solution makes sense and I'm sure many readers will profit from it.

Trouble Looms

Dear Ann Landers: I am a Baptist. My fiancé is Lutheran. Mike's parents have money. My mother is a widow and lives on a limited income. Mike's folks are putting on the wedding and reception. Both will be in their church.

As the time grows near, I become more and more depressed. My religion means a lot to me. Mike says his religion means a lot to him, too. We have talked it over several times but it always ends up the same way — a stalemate.

We are both 22 and very much in love — at least I thought we were. Now I'm not so sure. What does this sound like to you? — Wavering

Dear W.: Trouble. The kind that gets worse with time — unless you resolve it now.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers's guide to "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Visual Punishment

I have always admired mothers who can reach out, give their kid a belt or a thump and that's it. The punishment for the misdeed is done.

I use visuals. Me.

When a child comes in late, I refuse to shout or scream about it. Instead, the next morning I will drag out to the kitchen looking like an avocado that has gone bad and say, "Go ahead. Kill your mother. Do I ask a lot? Eighteen hours of sleep a day. That's all I ask. But you — Mr. Night Vision. You run around like a hamster."

"Mom! Why don't you go to bed?"

"Did you hear that?" I asked the refrigerator. "Go to bed, he says. Why, I'd just have to get up when the policeman came to tell me you're in a ditch somewhere."

"MOM..."

"Put me out of your mind," I said. "But when I fall asleep in the dentist's chair, just tell yourself, 'I did that to Mom!'"

Some parents say visuals don't work as disciplinary measures. They say they're too subtle and too dramatic, but I have a few grabbers that have been effective.

Once when my daughter gave a party and didn't clean up, I was doing dishes at four in the morning. I know she felt rotten, even as she slept through it.

Probably my finest hour came last week when one son dropped me off at the beauty shop with instructions to "Call when they're finished with the estimate." I called several times and no one answered. "I'll just have to punish him," I said and began the three-mile trip home by foot in the hot, blazing sun.

Forty-five minutes later I stood before him, hair styled like a Brito pad, face red as a beet, breathing irregular, white anklets dusty from the walk. He was connected to his stereo with a pair of earphones.

"I know this is more punishment than a child should bear but I had to do it to you," I said gasping for breath, "to teach you a lesson."

He slid off the earphones. "I can't hear you with these earphones on."

"You're just going to have to live with your own guilt," I said, "and remember me as I stand before you... weak... but brave on the brink of a coronary."

"Does that mean you won't get to the store?" he asked.

Did I tell you he'd feel rotten?

Dr. Lester Coleman

My five year old daughter was bitten on the face by a dog who was tied to a post outside a store.

She didn't even try to play with him — simply brushed by him. Now we are told she will need plastic surgery. Shouldn't there be laws to protect us from such dangers?

Mrs. J.B.O., Tex.

Dear Mrs. O.: Although I am a dog lover I am aware of the dangers of which you speak.

There are two factors that deserve precautionary measures if the thousands of animal bites that occur each year are to be reduced.

The first rule is that no unmuzzled dog should be tied on a public thoroughfare while its owner is even briefly away from it. The leashed dog can feel abandoned, frightened and defenseless. Any gesture by a child or an adult may suggest a possible threat.

The second factor is that everyone, particularly children, must be taught the proper way to approach a strange animal.

The rules are simple.

1) Don't approach a strange dog that is tied.

2) Don't tease or mistreat an animal, even a family pet.

3) Don't disturb a dog who is eating or chewing on a bone.

4) Don't suddenly wake a sleeping dog.

5) Don't pet a strange dog unless you have been given permission by the owner. Children especially should ask if the dog is friendly and likes to be petted.

Don't reach out to pet a strange dog until he has first come to sniff your extended hand. Speak softly to the dog and don't make sudden motions.

I have always been impressed, too, by another hazard that is overlooked. Friendly dogs often chase youngsters on bicycles. The combination of a dog, a bicycle and oncoming automobiles is an obvious threat.

It is surprising how often the dog is less at fault than the child or adult who is bitten. Proper education, muzzling of dogs that are off the leash or tied and a respect for dogs of all sizes can diminish such sad experiences as yours.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "What to Do About Ucers." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Ucer Booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

In standard American bidding the jump to two notrump by an unpassed hand shows a balanced 13 to 15 high-card points and is forcing to game. The delayed jump used to show the same strength in the old days. Right now the general expert practice is to respond in a suit if possible and go to three notrump on your next turn, if partner's rebid shows a minimum.

South has 4-3-3-3 distribution with stoppers in all suits and 13 high-card points. The hand also includes a biddable heart suit and South makes the proper first response of one heart.

North's two-heart rebid shows a minimum opening with heart support, probably four hearts,

Milliken, Crim Stalemated On Strikes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken and House Speaker Bobby Crim are stalemated over school strike legislation. Milliken is troubled because it permits teacher walkouts up to 13 days without pay loss.

Crim strongly disagreed with Milliken's objections to the House-passed bill legalizing limited teacher strikes. The measure awaits action in the Senate and Milliken has threatened to veto it if it comes to him as passed by the House.

The Senate Labor Committee met Thursday to discuss the bill but delayed any action on it until next week. Both Republicans and Democrats are preparing amendments to the measure.

The committee met before a large crowd of parents from the Dearborn Heights Crestwood district, which suffered a lengthy strike last year. Sen. David Plawewski, D-Dearborn Heights, whose district contains the Crestwood district and the parents, said afterwards he was hopeful of reaching agreement on the bill and avoiding a veto as promised by Milliken.

Debate on the bill was summed up by one lawmaker who quipped:

"Parents want monetary penalties for teachers without the right to strike, and teachers want the right to strike without monetary penalties."

Milliken contends the bill would encourage strikes by not imposing financial penalties on teachers or school boards soon enough. Crim said, however, the bill would curb strikes and help insure that students receive a 180-day school year without loss of state school aid.

Under the House-passed teacher strike bill, teachers could strike through Sept. 18 without endangering the 180-day school year and without loss of state school aid.

"It's my opinion that the governor is wrong. He is of the opinion that I am wrong," said Crim.

Why not sit down and straighten the governor out? Crim was asked.

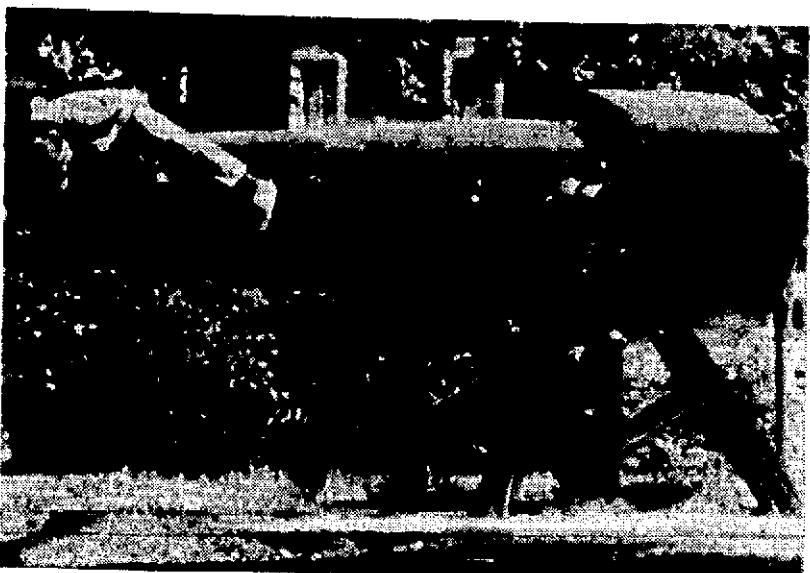

"I talked to the governor and he has talked to me," Crim said of a morning telephone conversation with Milliken. "So far, we haven't straightened each other out."

Milliken supports unsuccessful amendments offered by state Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, which would penalize teachers with loss of pay and shorten the 180-day school year starting the first Monday after Labor Day.

Crim rejected the Keith amendments but did not rule out the possibility of returning to them in negotiations with Milliken.

However, Crim emphasized he favors "a more flexible starting date" of Sept. 19, which is the way the bill stands now.

Some Teachers Can Get Jobless Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teachers who worked as substitutes during the school year could still be eligible for unemployment insurance benefits although a special law excludes them from collecting jobless benefits during the summer.

An official with the Labor Department's Manpower Administration said Thursday that substitutes without contracts for the fall term could qualify, provided they met general state requirements for jobless benefits. Most substitutes do not work under contract.

CONDITION GUARDED
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Rod Serling, creator of the science-fiction television series "The Twilight Zone," was reported in guarded condition today after 10 hours of open heart surgery.

The states generally require an individual to have worked 18 to 20 weeks to be eligible for compensation.

Fulltime teachers who were laid off from their jobs or who were not under contract for the fall term also would be eligible.

Elementary and high school teachers, administrators and researchers became eligible for jobless benefits last December when Congress extended unemployment assistance program to roughly some 12 million state and local government employees, household workers and farm workers whose jobs had not previously been covered by such laws.

Air Crash Kills Four Hoosiers

DETROIT (AP) — Four persons from Muncie, Ind., were killed Thursday when their single-engine plane crashed and burst into flames in an alley, one block from Detroit City Airport, airport officials said.

The dead were identified as Joseph B. White 47, assistant placement director at Ball State University; his wife, Jane, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Oren. Police said Frank Uytendaele, 70, was injured while he was cutting his lawn near the crash site.

Officers said Uytendaele was scorched by the flames from the Piper Cherokee and suffered burns over 70 per cent of his body. Witnesses said a woman who was hanging her laundry near the scene of the accident smothered the flames on his burning body with a sheet.

He was reported in critical condition at Detroit General Hospital. FAA officials said the plane was registered to Wanderlust Inc., a firm based in Muncie.

Kenneth Kendall, president of the flying club that owned the four-place Piper Cherokee said the four-some had been on a trip to Canada. Kendall said Oren was employed by the Warner Gear Division in Muncie.

He said both Oren and White were licensed pilots and belonged to the five-member Wanderlust club. Airport officials said the plane was en route from Toronto to Muncie. It left Toronto Island Airport at 1:15 p.m. and was to land at Detroit City Airport to go through customs.

came in too high for the landing, then decided to come in lower on a third try.

A witness said the plane then appeared to stall and began spinning to the ground. It crashed at 1:50 p.m. in the alley between Uytendaele's garage and the garage of a neighboring home.

"I heard a buzzing sound and looked up and saw the plane, and I knew it was coming down," said the next-door neighbor, who asked not to be identified. "Then the plane hit. By the time we got our kids to the front yard, the plane was on fire.

"There was a fireball, and I think I heard some secondary explosions. One of them might have been my motorcycle," he said, explaining that his motorcycle was parked in his garage and was set on fire by the explosion.

Scarpuzza said it was lucky the plane did not plow into a home in the area.

State Democrats Neutral In Presidential Primary

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Democratic Party will endorse no single candidate in the state's presidential primary election next spring.

The party got stung in 1972 by opposing the candidacy of Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who swept the Michigan primary with 51 per cent of the vote over other candidates found acceptable by the party.

"The chairman, officers and party will remain neutral in a presidential primary election," state Democratic Party Chairman Morley Winograd said Thursday.

Earlier talk of scrapping or altering Michigan's presidential primary appear to have eased in. Wallace's charge that such moves were designed to erode his political power is a major reason, party officials have indicated.

Party officers who wish to align with a presidential primary candidate can identify themselves as party officers while doing so, Winograd said.

A similar neutrality posture has not been adopted for Michigan's August 1976 primary election for the U.S. Senate and other statewide and local offices, Winograd said. He said he could not gauge Wallace's chance for victory in another Michigan primary.

"He's kept his organization together from the 1972 campaign where he had to start from scratch. To that degree, he has an advantage," Winograd said.

Chrysler Plans New Lightweight

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. is developing a lighter, more fuel-sipping version of its compact Plymouth Duster to compete this fall with U.S. subcompacts and foreign imports, company sources say.

Chrysler, the only American car maker that does not build a subcompact, is planning to sell a limited number of the new Feather Duster, as the car reportedly has been dubbed. The sources say Chrysler plans to sell 10,000 to 15,000 in the 1976-model year.

A company spokesman Thursday declined comment about the reported plans.

But company sources say the firm is working full blast on the car to have it ready for introduction by mid-October, when all Chrysler's 1976 models will debut.

Chrysler hopes the new car will get up to 30 miles to the gallon based on the federal highway driving test. The current Duster was rated at 18 m.p.g. in the city and 23 m.p.g. on the highway.

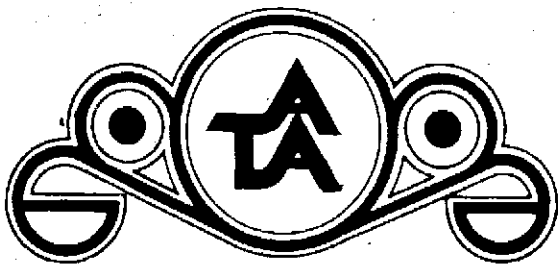

Government mileage tests, conducted in a laboratory, do not always reflect the mileage a buyer would get in actual driving conditions. Even industry officials say the government figures are high.

The Chrysler sources say Feather Duster will be identical to the Duster in size, shape and design but with several hundred pounds lopped off.

The company hopes to eliminate weight by substituting lighter materials — mainly aluminum and plastic — wherever possible, and by restricting options available with the car.

Official's Camp Called Crowded

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — State officials say they discovered overcrowding in apparent violation of Michigan law at a camp for migrant farm workers operated by state Rep. Donald J. Albosta.

The officials said the alleged violations of Michigan's licensing law for migrant housing was discovered during an inspection of several camps Thursday.

Anna Ortiz, a field worker for the Department of Social Services, said 26 people were living in a 12-by-60-foot trailer on Albosta's farm in St. Charles until Wednesday.

Kenneth Kolanowski, camp licensing official for the Department of Public Health, said 12 adults is the most the facility could accommodate legally. He said the trailer otherwise was fit to be licensed.

EX-SOLDIER: Donald B. Solini, 38, a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., real estate executive, has just returned from a three weeks visit in Cuba. Solini served with Fidel Castro's Revolutionary army in the 1950's, and was recently granted permission to return to Cuba by both Castro and the U. S. State Department. (AP Wirephoto)

Judge Says District Was Fair

DETROIT (AP) — A state employment relations hearing judge has cleared the way for the Crestwood School District to fire 180 teachers for striking last fall and winter.

Administrative law judge Solomon Sperka ruled Thursday the Dearborn Heights school board was fair in its dealings with the teachers.

The state Supreme Court ruled in April that the firings were legal if a Michigan Employment Relations Commission hearing found the school board innocent of charges it used unfair labor practices.

An appeal is expected within 30 days to the full commission, but officials to the teacher union and the school board could not be reached for comment Thursday.

Meanwhile, a Wayne County Circuit Court order barring the firings until the full commission rules remains in effect.

The Crestwood board fired the teachers during the strike in December and hired replacements. The teachers were rehired under a court order a month later.

Boating Courses Offered

CASSOPOLIS — Summer boating courses are being offered by Cass county sheriff's department marine division at the Diamond Lake Yacht club, Cassopolis.

Commander Richard Parrish of the marine division said that the courses will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday through Aug. 14. Parrish said that all children between the ages of 12 and 15 must be licensed to operate a boat powered by six horsepower or more. Registration may be made at the division's headquarters next to the sheriff's department in Cassopolis.

Ms. Ortiz said that until Wednesday a pregnant woman, her husband and daughter were living in a chicken coop on the Albosta farm. She said many of the windows were broken and there was straw in the coop.

Workers who had been living in the trailers and chicken coop left Wednesday for Traverse City to pick cherries and strawberries, Ms. Ortiz said.

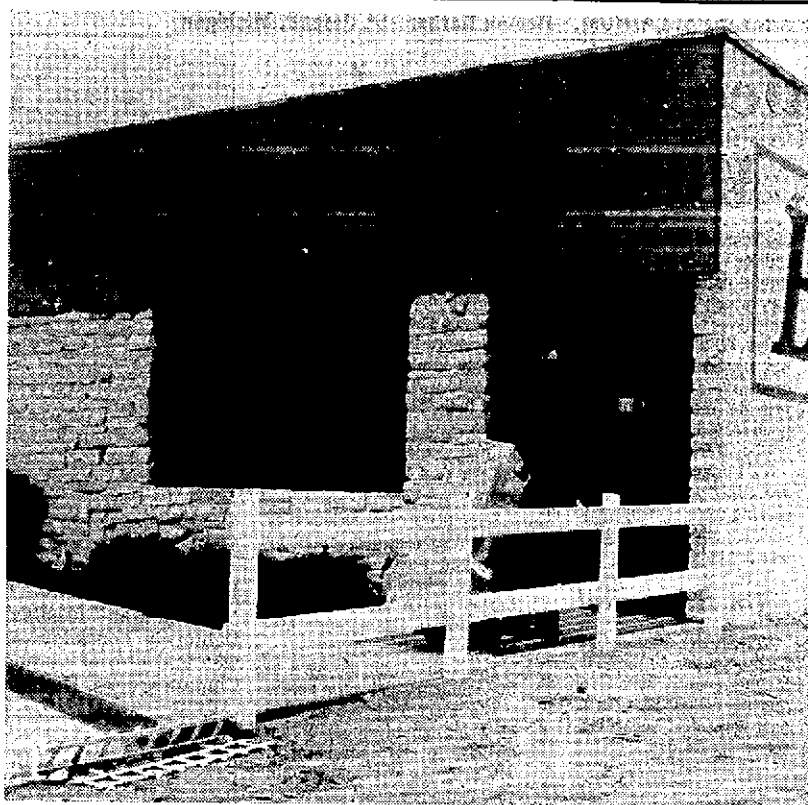

Albosta, a Democrat, said Thursday he was not aware of any violations at his farm. He said he had given permission for seven adults and two children to stay at the trailer while they worked his sugar beet fields.

"Where all the people came from, I don't know," he said. "I didn't try to count any heads because that would have been hard to do."

Albosta said he had no knowledge that anyone had lived in the chicken coop. He said he has been providing living quarters for migrants for 20 years.

Ms. Ortiz said there was proof that Lydia Almaguer, her husband, Guadalupe, and their daughter, Bertha, lived in the coop for two weeks.

"If the state department of health is going to be on my neck, I'm going to give the whole thing up," Albosta said. "I'll even quit growing sugar

NEW BAKER BOOK HOUSE: Baker Book House, formerly located at 77 Wall street in Benton Harbor, is open for business in new building at 2913 Niles avenue, St. Joseph, next to Southtown Twin Theatres. The 30 by 110-foot store houses large supply of Bibles, Christian books, secular books in both hard and soft covers, religious greeting cards, tapes, records, music books, church school materials, wedding invitations, gifts and jewelry. Social services officials said they also found violations of the

Britain, France Helping Egypt To Be Arab Arsenal

LONDON (AP) — Britain and France, hungry for petrodollars, have entered into secret commitments to help make Egypt the arsenal of the Arab world.

Senior officials of Britain, France and Egypt said their governments are now in the final phase of negotiating a series of interlocking multibillion-dollar transactions for the supply of plants and technology to Egypt as well as weapons.

The British government has sought to reassure Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin that the arrangements are not intended to hurt his country. But the Israelis, who rely on the United States for arms, have told London and Paris they are worried.

The informants disclosed the broad outlines of a two-stage program:

In the first stage, Britain and France will supply Egypt with a wide range of war material, including 200 trainer and light attack planes, at least 250 helicopters, antitank guided missiles, light tanks, armored cars, communications systems and radar gear.

The British expect to earn more than $1 billion from this, the French nearly as much.

In the second stage, Britain and France separately, and in some cases jointly through merged British and French firms, will provide the plants, technicians and capital equipment for the Egyptians initially to assemble and later to manufacture helicopters, tanks, missiles and other weapons.

This new arms industry would serve those Arab countries which want to lessen their reliance on the Soviet Union; presumably Libya, Syria and Iraq would not be interested.

British and French earnings for equipment, technology, licensing and patent rights could run into the billions of dollars.

During talks with Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Foreign Secretary James Callaghan in London two weeks ago, Deputy Premier Ismail Fahmy made plain that Egypt was not asking for credits from the Europeans.

Malpractice Bills Head For Gov. Milliken's Desk

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A pair of medical malpractice insurance bills is headed for the governor's desk and the House has approved low-interest loans for farmers victimized by the tainted feed disaster.

The House gave swift approval Thursday, 99-0, to legislation authorizing arbitration of malpractice claims.

The measure, which the governor is expected to sign, would permit patients to agree to arbitration when they seek damages for shoddy medical treatment. There would be no limit on damages that could be collected.

Another malpractice measure, approved 102-1 and sent to the governor, places a statute of limitations on filing malpractice lawsuits.

The limits would be within two years of the time treatment ends or within six months of the time a patient discovers an injury which is cause for action, whichever comes later.

Gov. William Milliken already has signed into law legislation creating a special fund to provide medical malpractice insurance for doctors who cannot buy it from private carriers.

Six measures signed into law are aimed at holding down the soaring costs of malpractice insurance and insuring that doctors are covered.

On Honor Roll

STERLING, Kan.—Gabriele Seelig, Sawyer, has been named to the dean's honor roll at Sterling college here during the past semester, according to a school spokesman.

In other activity, the House approved legislation calling for state provided loans of up to $250,000 to each of dozens of dairy and cattle farmers whose cattle were poisoned in the infamous tainted feed disaster. The vote was 103-0 and the bill went to the Senate.

The state loans of $1,500 per animal would be paid back at 3.5 per cent interest over five years.

Some 16,000 cattle sickened by the tainted feed distributed by Michigan Farm Bureau Services have been slaughtered and buried in the worst livestock poisoning in the nation's history.

The loans would be used to build up dairy and cattle herds.

The House approved creation of a bureau of minority enterprise in state government. The vote was 87-16 and the bill goes to the governor.

The Treasury Department could appeal decisions of the state Board of Tax Appeals under a measure approved 103-2 and sent to the Senate.

The chairman of the tax appeals board would be paid $2,500 annually under a measure approved 102-1 and sent to the Senate.

State agencies could increase petty cash funds from the current $500 to $1,000 under a bill approved 102-0 and sent to the Senate.

U.S. Feminists Seek Unity

MEXICO CITY (AP) — American feminists are trying to head off a Latin American move to censure Betty Friedan for "manipulative tactics" at the International Women's Conference.

"Now is the time to stay unified," said Eunice West of New York at a feminist caucus Thursday night. "Now that things are rolling and our document for action is being presented to the U.N. conference, we should stay together."

Ms. West, who prefers that designation, said she and some other women had grievances about Ms. Friedan's frequent dominance of meetings of the Tribune, the sessions for non-governmental persons being held parallel to the meetings for the official delegations to the United Nations women's conference. But "we should go back home and do our criticizing there," she said.

A group of Latin American women began circulating a petition Thursday which said leadership roles should be rotated.

"The authoritarian tactics of a few persons have alienated feminists," it said. "We do not like the manipulative tactics."

Edith Rinaldo of Argentina and Maria Eugenia Echazarreta of Mexico confirmed that the petition referred to Ms.

Friedan, who also prefers that designation.

"We consider Betty Friedan's value to be as a writer and as a vanguard feminist, but we don't feel she is representative of us," Ms. Echazarreta, who prefers that designation, told the caucus of about 75 women, most of them from the United States.

Senate Votes To Continue 'Money Saving' Committee

LANSDING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has voted to continue work by a special committee which is studying ways to save money in state government.

Fire Damages Ski Jump

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. (AP) — Part of the Pine Mountain ski jump, the world's largest, was destroyed Thursday by fire.

Fire Chief Alfonso Fuse said the steel superstructure of the jump may have been damaged but the fire was mainly confined to a shack at the top of the slide where skiers wait before jumping. Gilbert LaFave, vice chairman of the Dickinson County Board of Commissioners, said insurance should cover repairs, adding the Pine Mountain ski jump classic will be held as usual next March. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

Authorities said they believe the ski jump fire, a grass fire which threatened a home and a blaze at an abandoned house, all of which occurred Thursday night, are related. The county and the city of Iron Mountain said a reward of $1,500 was being offered for anyone with information which led to the arrest of those responsible for the fires and for vandalism at the community service center.

recommendations it says could save the state $3.3 million a year if implemented. The panel, originally scheduled to expire June 30, is now authorized to function through the rest of the 1975-76 legislative session.

The Senate action also gave the committee an extra $10,000, on top of the $25,000 originally budgeted for it.

Three members of the committee appeared before the Senate Business Committee Thursday to urge the extension. They said a planned study of all three branches of state government might save the state between $90 million and $160 million if put into effect.

The committee, chaired by Sen. John Hertel, D-Detroit, has hired a Chicago consulting firm to conduct the study. The firm, using contributions of money and talent from private business, has done similar studies in other states at no cost to the states themselves.

The firm, Warren King and Associates, is to investigate how things could be done more efficiently and inexpensively. It will not deal with policy questions concerning state programs.

Hertel told the Business Committee, which approved the resolution extending the special committee's work, that Gov. William Milliken will cooperate in the study.

The committee's five recommended saving steps included: —Closing a state-funded sex therapy clinic within the Lafayette Clinic in the Department of Mental Health. That entails a savings of $50,000 annually.

—Continue the present restrictions on out-of-state travel after the state's fiscal crisis has passed. That could save $200,000 a year, the committee said.

—End auditing of county road commissions by two separate state agencies, which might save $30,000 a year.

—Recapturing for the state certain federal reimbursements; which could bring in some $3 million.

—Improving ways to deal with consulting contracts. The committee did not estimate the savings here.

India 'Generally Calm' In Wake Of Crackdown

EDITORS' NOTE: The following dispatch is based on an official government briefing and on other information cleared by censors after the proclamation of a state of emergency in India.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Scattered violence and strikes were reported following Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's crackdown on her political enemies, but the government said the situation in India generally was calm.

New Delhi's streets were normal today, with business establishments and government offices open and no extra police in sight.

Strikes closed some businesses and offices in Bombay and in Haryana state north of New Delhi.

Police used tear gas against rioters stoning buses and throwing up roadblocks in Ahmedabad, capital of Gujarat state 275 miles north of Bombay, according to A.R. Bajaj, the chief government information officer.

The government said a total of 676 persons were arrested in nine of India's 21 states after the proclamation of a state of emergency early Thursday. The government's purpose was to head off a nationwide civil disobedience campaign against Mrs. Gandhi's refusal to resign following her conviction for illegal use of government officials in her 1971 campaign for Parliament.

A government spokesman said 90 persons were arrested in New Delhi and 450 in Madhya Pradesh, India's central state. He said they were being "very well looked after" and acknowledged that they included leaders of opposition parties.

He refused to give the names of those arrested, but other sources reported previously that they included former Deputy Prime Minister Morarji Desai; 72-year-old Jayaprakash Narayan, who for months has been leading a campaign against Mrs. Gandhi; and Asoka Mehta, the leader of the Congress party conservatives who broke with her in 1969.

However, the government did issue a statement denying reports circulating in New Delhi that two leading members of the cabinet, Foreign Minister Y. B. Chavan and Agriculture Minister Jagjivan Ram, had been placed under house arrest.

The trial court that found Mrs. Gandhi guilty of corrupt campaign practices barred her from holding elective office for six years. Her opponents had announced nationwide demonstrations this weekend against her refusal to resign after a Supreme Court justice on Tuesday granted only a partial stay of the sentence until the full court decides her appeal against her conviction.

Although Justice V. R. Krishna Iyer ruled that she could continue in the prime minister's office, he said she could not vote in Parliament, and her foes contended this constituted a stigma which required her resignation.

A press dispatch from Bombay today reported that the lawyer who argued Mrs. Gandhi's case before Justice Iyer, Nani Palkhivala, resigned as the chief lawyer for her appeal Thursday. He is considered India's leading constitutional lawyer.

More of less is on the way.

Actually, our problem isn't an undersupply of Lite Beer. It's an oversupply of Lite Beer drinkers. When we introduced the great tasting beer that's less filling, we knew you'd like it. But we never realized how much. So if you're having a bit of trouble finding it in your favorite store, we apologize. And we promise you'll soon have more Lite Beer than ever. We're working as fast as our special brewing process will let us. In the meantime, please try not to get filled up on something else.

Lite Beer from Miller. Everything you always wanted in a beer. And less.

Apple Scab 'Wonder Spray' Falters Here

New Strain Resistant To Benlate; Recommend Changing Sprays

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

Benlate, or benomyl, which has been a "wonder drug" fungicide to area fruit growers since it was first approved for commercial use three years ago, appears to have an Achilles heel.

Dr. A.L. Jones, fruit disease pathologist at Michigan State University, has reported finding two orchards in Berrien county in which Benlate no longer controls apple scab. It also has been indicated by other sources that apple scab may have developed tolerance to the material in at least three other "suspect" orchards — one each in Berrien, Van Buren and Allegan counties.

The definite finds in the two Berrien orchards are believed to be first reported cases of scab resistance to the material in the United States.

The two orchards in which the tolerance to Benlate has been proven, according to Jones, have used the new material as the regular fungicide for three seasons.

Jones declared that further apple scab problems due to tolerance will become widespread unless growers take steps to prevent a buildup of tolerant strains of scab.

Jones outlined a series of suggestions for growers to observe during the rest of the current season, including a recommendation that growers who have used Benlate regularly for one or more seasons for apple scab should switch right now to another standard apple fungicide even if scab control has been good to date. This could prevent a buildup of tolerant scab strains for next year.

Growers who have used the material almost exclusively for two or more years and have current scab problems should switch to Cyprex (dodine), Jones suggested. He asked that growers who have used Benlate regularly since 1973 to contact him or their county agents so the orchards can be checked to see if there are tolerant strains present. Where Benlate has been alternated with other fungicides or has been used as part of a tank mix with a second fungicide, Jones recommended continuing the program as long as it appears to be performing satisfactorily.

Jones reported that in the two orchards where tolerant strains have developed, scab lesions were not being inhibited by Benlate applications and secondary lesions were common on terminal leaves and fruit. Taken into the laboratory, scab conidia from these blocks germinated and produced normal germ tubes in culturing media that contained 5 to 25 times as high a concentration of Benlate as would normally inhibit scab development.

Jordan Tatter, southwestern Michigan district horticultural agent, said there have been no signs that various other stone fruit diseases may have developed resistance.

GRAPE COMBER: John Prokopchuk, Eau Claire grower who converted his Vineyards to single-wire trellis and cordon-spur training system, prepares to comb new growth in vineyard. Mechanical comb was built for him by Smith Welding Co., Berrien Springs, for about $700, designed in part from couple of other combers in southwestern Michigan. Hydraulic Motor drives series of spring fingers attached to roller chain. Fingers comb down through new shoot growth as tractor drives along row, untangling thousands of snarls. Prokopchuk plans to go to mechanical pruning and summer combing is a necessity to avoid snarled vines. His single-wire cordon-spur system is like half of double curtain system. It yields as well as his old four-arm kniffen system, and perhaps better on frosty years because buds are all up higher. (Staff photo)

200 YEARS OF FARMING

Market, Good Prices Always Incentives For Production

"Give us a market and remunerating prices and we can raise an amount of produce that will astonish the world."

Does this sound like something a modern-day mechanized farmer might say as he makes his cropping plans in the mid-1970's?

Actually the statement was made well over a century ago by a farmer in Scottsville, N.Y.

It illustrates that incentive was always a major consideration in the minds of farmers in planning their agricultural production levels.

The New York State farmer went on to say that he was gratified to see a better system of farming taking the place of the old, careless and slovenly method previously followed in Western New York.

"This is to be attributed chiefly to the liberal prices obtained for our produce for the last few years, thereby producing in the farmer a stimulus to exertion, which he does not often feel when prices are so low as barely to pay the cost of production," he said.

His comments were echoed by another farmer from Dorchester County, Md.

"The last 10 years have been marked by a decided reformation in the farming operations of this country," he wrote.

He cited how the most primitive agricultural implements have been replaced by equipment, such as the Dragharrow. Manuring was then looked upon as an idle loss of time and money, he said.

"But now, how things have changed. Every farmer is striving to outstrip his neighbor in the largest yield of crops, in manuring and in all the improvements in farm machinery."

Today, as the American farmer is again called upon to play an ever larger role in helping to feed a hungry world, these words of a century and a quarter ago are more timely than ever.

As back in the 1850's, the farmer is ready to do the job that needs to be done. All he needs is the incentive in the form of a fair and balanced return for his increased effort.

FESTIVAL AT SOUTH HAVEN

Queen Contest Starts Tonight

SOUTH HAVEN — Selection of a new queen to reign over the National Blueberry festival here will highlight activities of South Haven's salute to the Michigan blueberry industry this weekend.

Eight contestants from throughout Michigan will compete in the queen pageant which begins at 8 p.m. tonight with talent competition at the Central school auditorium. The overall winner will be announced Saturday night.

The sixth annual festival was launched yesterday with a kiddies parade featuring several hundred young marchers. The celebration will continue through July

6. The parade, sponsored by the Community Education and Recreation council, was led by Grand Rapids television personality Bozo the Clown.

Winners included: bikes, Ryan Dahman and Lori Janosky; most unique theme, Tot Lot playground group; most colorful unit, Bangor schools Headstart pre-schoolers; best float, Johnston park playground group; most patriotic marchers, Jennifer Smith and Tony Janosky; most patriotic group, Tot Lot playground group; funniest participants, Amanda and Scott Bahasick; funniest group, Monroe park playground.

A boat and camper show will be held in the South Haven yacht club parking lot Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. until dusk. The Kalamazoo antique car club will exhibit vehicles Saturday in the Congregational church parking lot from 9 a.m. until dusk.

Other events Saturday will include a 2 p.m. ski show on the Black river in front of the municipal marina by members of the Scott Lake ski club, sponsored by the River Bend boat club. The River Bend boat club will also sponsor its annual Venetian parade of boats along the Lake Michigan shoreline on Saturday beginning at dusk.

DOWAGIAC DRIVER DIES: Thomas Reifenberg, 21, of Dowagiac, was killed early this morning when his car, which he was apparently driving, slammed into trees off Territorial road near M-140. His brother, Michael, 16, was critically injured in the accident, Berrien sheriff's deputies said. (Cliff Stevens photo)

Dowagiac Man Dies In Berrien

Accident remains under investigation.

Watervliet police said Salverson was involved in a two-vehicle property damage accident earlier in the day, about 5:30 p.m., when he attempted to pass a car stopped at the intersection of Boyer road at the Berrien-Van Buren county line.

Both vehicles were damaged slightly. No tickets were issued, police said.

Martha Josephine Vaughn, 40, 287 Forest Beach road, Watervliet, was reported in satisfactory condition at Watervliet Community hospital today after being injured in a car-pedestrian accident yesterday afternoon in Colonia township.

Colonia township police said she walked into the path of an auto being driven by Gilbert Craig, 311 West St. Joseph street, Watervliet. No tickets were issued, police said. The accident occurred on Red Arrow highway near Center street, police said.

A Berkley, Mich., truck driver was listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Watervliet Community hospital following an accident on I-94, 1½ miles east of Watervliet yesterday, according to Watervliet city police.

Dennis Frederick, 46, had just pulled his rig onto I-94 from the Watervliet rest area when he was struck from behind by another semi-truck driven by Paul H. Glover, 42, of Belvidere, Ill. Glover told police that the brakes on his truck failed. The 5:50 p.m. accident remains under investigation.

Four people were treated for minor injuries sustained yesterday in two other Berrien county accidents.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said Kurt Wiesemes, 17, route 2, Hartford, the driver in a one-car accident on M-152 near County Line road, Bainbridge township, was issued a ticket for careless driving. His car went off the road hitting a utility pole, police said. Wiesemes and his passenger, James Murray, 17, of Dowagiac, were released from Memorial hospital, St. Joseph.

Mark Winnell, 19, of 1933 Orchard drive, Stevensville, and a passenger in his car, Sabrina Sivley, 4126 Browning street, Lincoln township, were released after treatment at Memorial hospital. Winnell was ticketed by Berrien sheriff's deputies for failure to yield the right of way after a collision between his car and a vehicle driven by Irving Lilly, 51, of LaPorte, Ind., on Glenford road near Woodland avenue, Lincoln township. Neither Lilly nor his passenger were hurt.

Governor Replaces Art Council Critic

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The most persistent critic of Michigan Council for the Arts policy, Nancy Munnix of Grand Rapids, has been refused a second four-year term on the council by Gov. William Milliken.

Munnix, who sought reappointment, criticized the council for not equitably distributing funds statewide and for adopting too many of its own programs rather than locally originated programs.

Milliken announced Thursday without elaboration he was replacing her with Peggy Bransdorfer of Ada. Mrs. Bransdorfer is past president of the Grand Rapids Art Museum's women's committee and co-chaired an outdoor sculpture show last year that attracted national attention.

Mrs. Bransdorfer's husband, Stephen, is president of the State Bar of Michigan. Milliken's failure to reappoint Mrs. Munnix "constitutes a gross injustice to one of Michigan's finest arts advocates and to the arts in general," Sen. John Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, said in a letter to Milliken. Otterbacher said Mrs. Bransdorfer also is qualified for the council and that his protest was not to her appointment but to the failure to reappoint Mrs. Munnix.

Otterbacher said "failure to provide me with adequate justification for this decision leaves me few alternatives, one of which is to urge my colleagues to non-concur with these appointments."

E. Ray Scott, council executive director and frequent foe of Mrs. Munnix, declined comment. Milliken reappointed Dr. Bernard Klein of Detroit to the 15-member council. Like Mrs. Munnix, Klein indicated he wanted reappointment.

Carolyn Hoagland of East Lansing was appointed to succeed Dolores Wharton, wife of Michigan State University President Clifton Wharton Jr., who did not desire reappointment.

The terms expire June 1, 1979, and are subject to Senate confirmation.

Air Hunt On For Oil Spiller

CHICAGO (AP) — Pollution control officials searched by air Thursday for a ship that may have dumped heavy oil that caused beach damage along Lake Michigan, but they said it is unlikely the vessel will be found.

The oil caused closing of three South Side beaches and fouled the Jackson Park Harbor yacht basin.

Fog delayed cleanup operations of about 1,000 gallons of what authorities described as heavy No. 6 bunker oil. A sanitary district spokesman said the oil caused extensive damage to the beaches, heavily used by bathers in the past week to escape a near-record heat wave. He said the sand must be removed and replaced.

July 4th Mileage Predicted

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan motorists are expected to log 696 million miles over the four-day Fourth of July holiday weekend.

That would be just under the 701 million miles driven over last year's five-day Fourth of July and 174 million miles fewer than the state's record set in 1972, the Department of State Highways and Transportation said Thursday.

The department has ordered only emergency road work be done over the holiday weekend to clear highways for anticipated heavy traffic, said John Woodford, department director. The order applies to movements of heavy equipment also, he said.

Heaviest traffic is expected to be on interstate highways 75, 94 and 96, U.S. 10, U.S. 23, U.S. 27, U.S. 127, U.S. 131 and Michigan 37. Thursday evening and Sunday afternoon probably will be the most crowded times on the highways, Woodford said.

Singer Hospitalized

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music singer Roy Clark is "resting well and in good condition" at St. Thomas Hospital where he is being treated for bronchial pneumonia, hospital officials say.

The 42-year-old singer, admitted Thursday, was expected to remain hospitalized two or three days. It was possible that a Warwick, R.I., concert scheduled for Monday might be canceled, a spokesman said.

Clark, one of the stars of the "Hee Haw" television series, was in Nashville for a benefit performance with comedian Jerry Lewis. A spokesman said a physician stood by offstage during Tuesday night's performance because Clark was suffering from the pneumonia then.

ASSIST ACCIDENT VICTIM: Jack Salverson, 26, route 4, box 403A, Paw Paw Lake road, Coloma, an ambulance attendant for Coloma Emergency Ambulance service, is aided by fellow volunteer workers after truck he was driving left Paw Paw Lake road last night striking tree near intersection of Little Paw Paw Lake road. Salverson was listed in serious condition this morning in intensive care unit of Memorial hospital, St. Joseph. Salverson told Richard Klimaszewski, Coloma township police chief, that brakes on truck failed. Accident remains under investigation. (Cliff Stevens photo)

U.S. Wages 'Losing War' For Sea Lanes Of World

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

While U.S. foreign policy makers pursue détente with the Soviet Union, retired Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, former chief of naval operations, is sounding the alarm on a growing Soviet naval threat.

"We are conducting a losing war for the sea lanes of the world," the retired admiral told the Economic Club of Southwestern Michigan last night at Ramada Inn.

And he blamed the United States' increasing naval "inferiority" on the U.S. Congress. "If Congress would stop their annual $5 billion cut of the defense budget and instead add $1 billion, a cold shudder would go back to Moscow and we would hear a lot of talk about détente and friendship."

Zumwalt spoke on "Morality in Government," but the morality he advocated did not concern Watergate or the Central Intelligence Agency. Instead, he warned the U.S. is losing a naval supremacy battle with the Soviet Union because it has failed to inform the American people of what's happening in foreign policy matters, an action he called "immoral."

"You cannot run a nation's foreign policy while at the same time deceiving the people," Zumwalt said. "We will continue to have foreign policy disasters if we are not open to the public."

Zumwalt attacked the détente and balance of powers policy approach and pointed to Vietnam and the Middle East as recent examples of this type of "foreign policy disaster."

"A nation cannot afford not to be moral about informing its people about foreign policy matters," he stated. "Henry Kissinger has demonstrated the failure of the other approach."

Zumwalt said Southeast Asia was lost to the Communists largely because President Nixon and his staff made commitments to the South Vietnamese without anyone else's knowledge. "Cambodia and South Vietnam went down the drain as the result of one of the greatest constitutional crises in our history," Zumwalt stated.

In the Middle East, Zumwalt said it was the United States' failure to take a stand that has caused us to become "a hostage to the goodwill of the Mideast oil producing countries." He said the American people should know "the connection between Soviet military supremacy and the price they are paying for a gallon of gasoline."

Zumwalt said foreign policy should be conducted with the consensus of the people and the "temptation to cut corners" must be ended because there was no "shortcut to democracy."

At a press conference before the address, Zumwalt said he believes the American people are not hearing all the facts about U.S. naval defense. He said there were 978 ships in the U.S. fleet in 1968, but that that figure has since been cut by more than 30 per cent, and that the Russian fleet was now fourfold as strong as the U.S.

"Are we in danger of going to war with Russia? No, I hope not," he said. "But we are going to have to accommodate them and that means backing down."

Admiral Zumwalt served as chief of naval operations from 1970 until July, 1974. During his term as chief, he instituted wide-ranging reforms to revitalize the service by humanizing personnel policies and making the navy a more inviting career for officers and men.

Zumwalt said the new policy was an effort at "treating sailors like people and all as equal." He said the new policy had increased re-enlistment by 10 per cent when it first started in 1970 and re-enlistment is now approaching 50 per cent.

At the press conference, the 54-year-old Zumwalt elaborated on why he retired as chief of naval operations. "My whole philosophy was to move people up and out," he said, "so I felt I better follow it."

Admiral 'Testing Waters'

Admiral Elmo R. Zumwalt, chief of naval operations from 1970 to July, 1974, hinted last night that he may soon become involved in politics. The 54-year-old Zumwalt said he was "testing the political waters" as a possible Democratic candidate for a U.S. Senate seat in Virginia. The contest for the Virginia seat would pit Zumwalt against incumbent Sen. Harry Byrd Jr., an independent. Zumwalt, now retired, said he was testing the political waters "to see if it was an intelligent thing to do."

Bookmobiles To Serve 22 Towns

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Library bookmobiles will visit schools in 22 communities this summer to help teach children of migrant workers.

The bookmobiles, stocked with reading matter in both English and Spanish, will stop in each city once a week for six weeks in an optional program focusing on grades K-8.

Librarians in the traveling vans will tell stories, show films, play records and lead games.

At the end of six weeks, students will be allowed to keep two paperback books from the truck.

Cities to be visited by the bookmobile are Eaton Rapids, Lansing, Fenwick, St. Louis, Lake Odessa, St. Johns, Stockbridge, Wayland, Auburn, Crosswell, Marlette, Reese, Saginaw, St. Charles, Unionville, Berrien Springs, Eau Claire, Coloma, Dowagiac, Fennville, Lawrence and Bangor.

TWO-TAILED WORM: Karl Schultz, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Schultz, Route 2, John Goff road, Watervliet, displays worm he found with double tail. Karl was getting ready to go fishing when he made his find in a pasture near his home. He will be eighth grader in Watervliet middle school this fall. (Cliff Stevens photo)

Niles Man Chosen Scout Council Chief

KALAMAZOO — Dale McKee of Niles was elected to a one-year term as president of the Southwest Michigan Council of Boy Scouts during its annual business meeting here last night.

McKee, who is director of testing for Clark Equipment company, Buchanan, succeeds Paul Kehoe of Battle Creek, who is an executive vice president of the Kellogg corporation.

Elected to one-year terms as vice-presidents were Stephen E. Upton, St. Joseph; Richard Huey, Kalamazoo; and Joe Winfrey, Battle Creek. Upton is vice president of the Whirlpool corporation's consumer, corporate and public affairs division.

Re-elected to terms were Paul J. Kaiser of Paw Paw as council commissioner, and Jack Woods of Kalamazoo as treasurer. Kaiser is Van Buren county highway engineer-manager.

During the meeting, Charles Bolton of Niles, an outgoing council vice president was cited for many years of service.

F. Lloyd Smith, vice president of the J.L. Hudson company, Detroit, was the guest speaker.

The council also established a new award, in honor of the late George N. Miller Jr., St. Joseph, for the scoutman chosen as having the most made the most contribution to a scout through camping. The first award went to Robert G. White who has been a director of a scout camp near Kalamazoo for 10 years.

People from Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties who were elected to the council executive board included:

Buchanan — Barry Borst.
Dowagiac — Ned Sutherland.
Lawrence — Tom Tansey.

Niles — Bolton, John Creiden, McKee, James

Nice, John G. Parnell, Ralph Powell, Robert

Roberts, and Warren Williams.

Paw Paw — Kaiser, Ward Ritchie, Frank

Thompson III, and Mrs. James Warner.

St. Joseph — Archie Clark, Dr. Thomas

Goodgame, Conrad Greim, George D. Mitchell,

Howard Paxson, William Stewart, Upton, and Ken Willis.

Allegan Hospital Chief Quits Post

ALLEGAN — Charles Yeates, administrator of Allegan General hospital here for 11½ years, is resigning. Yeates submitted his resignation, effective Aug. 31, to the hospital's board of trustees last night. According to a board spokesman, Yeates indicated he was planning on doing health care and personnel consulting work after leaving the hospital.

NEW ASSESSOR: Richard A. (Rick) Bell, serving currently as Buchanan city building inspector, has assumed additional duties as city assessor as well. Bell, 25, of St. Joseph, replaces former assessor John Leich who resigned earlier this month in wake of controversial tax assessment on property owned by Clark Equipment company in city. Bell joined city as building inspector in March, 1974. He and his wife, Cheryl, have one child. Mayor Joseph Bachman said appointment would be formally approved at July 14 meeting of city commission.

Radiologic Technology, Chicago, had listed a number of deficiencies in the college X-ray technician training program. The review committee is a national accreditation group. It cited the deficiencies in a letter to President Lehman in April that was not made public before.

In their letter, the five X-ray technicians who serve as instructors for the LMC students in clinical study in Mercy and Memorial hospitals, said:

"As instructors we feel that the current college program cannot continue due to the fact that it does deprive students of nationally approved training and will more than likely shut down upon next inspection, if changes are not made within the recommended guidelines put down by the Joint Review committee. We have firm commitments to maintain high standards in this program and share the concept of setting a goal for the very near future to either change the program and rebuild it the right way or drop it immediately before a new class starts in the fall of 1974."

Their letter added that two (not identified) of the five have declined to continue as instructors for the next year. Unless significant changes are made, the remaining three will withdraw, the letter said.

Writing for Radiology Associates, a six-man radiologic group that provides x-ray service in the Twin Cities, Dr. Henry J. Klos said the group agrees with the instructors that the criticisms are fair. He added that the potential for a continuing excellent program is present and that correction of deficiencies is not difficult.

Dr. Kloxmood that a central feature of corrections recommended by the Joint Review committee is a full-time radiologic coordinator. He said he understood that the LMC trustees had disapproved hiring a full-time coordinator.

Dr. Walter Browe, LMC executive vice president, responded to questions from the newspaper in the absence of President Lehman who is on vacation.

Browe said some of the deficiencies cited by the review committee have been corrected already and that more changes are underway.

He said, however, that the X-ray training program at LMC apparently has been a good one, judging from the "excellent record" of its graduates who have taken the national registry examination for technicians. He said 24 out of the 25 graduates since LMC took over operation of the program in 1969 have passed the national examination.

The college official said the administration is reluctant to hire a full-time coordinator for the X-ray program, which has only four to six students in a class. "We have to avoid getting too many administrators."

He noted that Dr. Dorothy Leader, head of the health sciences department, and Dr. Ben Stander, dean of occupational studies, already have responsibilities for the operation of the program. And a private consultant has been engaged to recommend improvements.

Browe went on to add that it has been the college's previous experience with specialist accreditation organizations that they always insist one of their specialists be hired full-time to run the program, no matter how small the program may be.

Browe said he has asked the clinical instructors and Dr. Klos to meet with himself and other college officials involved with the program to discuss the corrections being made and some misconceptions about the "deficiencies."

WEAVER PROMOTED: Buchanan police patrolman Clyde Weaver has been promoted to newly-created position of assistant police chief. Dan Moore, police chief, said yesterday that appointment was effective July 1. Weaver, 47, Roe street, Buchanan, has served department fulltime for seven years. Weaver and his wife, Geraldine, have six children, three of whom are married.

Farmer's Loss Is $5,255

SOUTH HAVEN — Farm products valued at $5,255 were reported stolen yesterday from a barn on the Julius Rainey farm, 59½ street, Geneva township, according to state police from the South Haven post.

The owner told troopers that baling twine valued at $600 and herbicide costing $4,655 were taken sometime in the past three weeks.

The theft was discovered Wednesday.

CRUISER CRASH

Bangor City Sued For $1,250,000

PAW PAW — A Coloma man and his wife are seeking $1,250,000 in damages from Bangor city and two Bangor policemen for injuries the man suffered in an auto accident while being transported to jail by the officers in February.

In a lawsuit filed in Van Buren circuit court, John and Terry Martelli claim that Martelli was paralyzed from his neck to toes, suffered severe abdominal injuries, a collapsed lung, and bleeding stress ulcers as a result of the Feb. 15 accident.

According to the suit, Martelli was being transported to the South Haven city jail by Officers Carl Simpson, 30, and Mark Stickels, 19, when the car crashed into a telephone pole on M-43 just west of Bangor. Simpson, the driver, according to the suit, was accused of driving too fast for existing conditions, and failure to maintain a proper watch of the road.

Police said Martelli had been arrested on a charge of being drunk and disorderly at a Bangor tavern, and that Simpson lost control of the car, running over a curb and into the tree, after he turned around to quiet Martelli, who was in the back seat.

The suit alleged that Martelli was arrested after he tried to intervene in an argument between his mother, Lorraine Martelli, and another woman at the bar. The two officers, according to the suit, without attempting to talk to anyone involved or ascertain any of the circumstances, used a chemical irritant in throwing Martelli to the ground and arresting him.

Martelli was subsequently charged with resisting arrest, although the warrant has not been served because he has been hospitalized, police said.

Both Simpson and Stickels were treated for minor injuries and released. Stickels is the nephew of Walter Stickels, chairman of the Van Buren county board of commissioners.

The damages are being sought to compensate Martelli for his pain, suffering and loss of earning capacity, and Mrs. Martelli for her loss of consortium and companionship, according to the suit.

Report Social Security Changes

People receiving gold-colored Supplemental Security Income checks in July will have checks cut by the amount of the 8% increase they receive in their Social Security checks.

Leonard Connolly, Acting District Manager of the Benton Harbor Social Security Office, stated, "Before July, 1975, Federal SSI was a program that guaranteed a minimum income of $146 to people 65 or older, blind, or disabled. The State of Michigan supplemented this minimum income up to $170."

"Effective July, 1975," he added, "Federal SSI will guarantee a minimum income of $157.70. The state guarantee will remain at $170."

He then explained that all income of SSI recipients is deducted from the $170. There is a $20 disregard for unearned income such as Social Security and Railroad Retirement Benefits.

Connolly illustrated the effect of Social Security increases on a basic SSI living arrangements as:

1. Individual — Social Security check increases from $138.90 to $150.10; SSI decreases from $51.10 to $39.90. The total remains $190.

2. Couple — Social Security increases from $194.10 to $209.70; SSI decreases from $80.90 to $65.30. The total remains $275.

3. In the household of another — Social Security increases from $93.80 to $101.40; SSI decreases from $39.54 to $31.94. The total remains $133.34.

Individuals whose unearned income is at least $190; $275 for couples, and $133.34 for individuals in the household of another will not receive any gold-colored SSI checks effective July, 1975.

People receiving Social Security and/or Railroad Retirement checks in addition to SSI, should receive the same combined total in July as June.

If they do not, then they should contact the Social Security Office. The Benton Harbor District Office telephone number is 928-7232.

Boston's Tiant Party Too Wild For Yanks

Melton's Slam Highlights Sox Victory

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Yankees attended a Boston Tiant Party Thursday night and saw their five-game winning streak go in the drain.

Luis Tiant pitched a strong seven-hitter, rookie Fred Lynn drove in three runs with a triple and single and Carlton Fisk hit his first home run in more than a year as the Red Sox thrilled a capacity crowd of 34,293 with a 6-1 triumph in the opener of a four-game series, leaving them just one-half game behind the Yankees in the American League's East Division. Tiant, 11-6, registered his fourth consecutive triumph after being nipped for a run in the first inning on Chris Chambliss' long sacrifice fly which scored Walt Williams all the way from second base.

The Red Sox got three runs off Pat Dobson in the fourth on singles by Rick Burleson and Carl Yastrzemski, Lynn's triple and a single by Cecil Cooper.

Fisk, playing only his fourth game since suffering a serious knee injury last June 28 and a broken forearm in spring training, touched off a three-run seventh with his first homer since June 17, 1974.

Elsewhere, the Cleveland Indians walloped the Milwaukee Brewers 9-2, the Kansas City Royals trimmed the California Angels 7-1, the Detroit Tigers edged the Baltimore Orioles 6-5 and the Chicago White Sox whipped the Texas Rangers 8-3. Oakland and Minnesota were not scheduled.

John Lowenstein, Boog Powell and Buddy Bell drove in two runs apiece to lead the Indians to their fifth straight victory while Dennis Eckersley and Jackie Brown blanked the Brewers until Darrell Porter's two-run homer in the ninth in-

Fred Patek slammed a two-run homer — his first of the season — George Brett singled three times and doubled and Marty Pattin scattered nine hits for the Royals. It was Kansas City's sixth straight victory against California and Pattin's second win over the Angels in eight days. Last week he fired a five-hit shutout. By winning, the Royals climbed to within 4½ games of idle Oakland in the American League West.

Bill Melton's grand slam homer off Ferguson Jenkins capped Chicago's five-run eighth inning and gave the White Sox an 8-2 lead en route to their fifth victory in a row.

The White Sox, extending their winning streak to five, held a slim 3-2 lead going into the eighth. But with one out, Jorge Orta singled, stole second and scored on Carlos May's single. Dave Johnson was safe when right-fielder Tom Greve dropped his fly ball, and Ken Henderson beat out an infield single to load the bases and set the stage for Melton's blast.

Wilbur Wood, 8-11, gained the victory, but was saved by Pat Kelly's sensational diving catch in the fifth inning and needed help from Rich Gossage in the seventh inning.

Ferguson Jenkins, 8-8, suffered the loss. The Rangers picked up a run on singles by Lenny Randle and Roy Smalley and a double by Jim Sundberg. With runners on second and third and Chicago leading 3-1, Cesar Tovar slammed a drive deep into right center. Kelly made a long run and then dove to catch the ball in the webbing of his glove for the third out.

The Sox scored an unearned run in the first inning. Orta reached second when Smalley dropped his pop fly for a two-base error and scored on a single by May.

Chicago added another after Nyls Nyman walked to open the second, stole second base and scored on a double by Brian Downing.

Orta doubled to open the third inning as he stretched his hitting streak to 11 games, and then scored on a single by Deron Johnson.

Mike Hargrove hit his eighth homer for Texas in the seventh. One out later Leo Cardenas walked and Gossage then came to the rescue.

The Rangers scored their final run in the bottom of the ninth when pinch-hitter Roy Howell singled home Hargrove.

Tigers Snap Loss Streak

Five-Hitter By Lolich Brings Celebration

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Detroit Tigers were acting like pennant winners, with handshakes and backslaps the only interruptions to their noisy chatter.

"We may never lose another game all season," Manager Ralph Houk cracked after the Tigers ended a six-game losing streak with a sloppy 6-5 victory over the equally slumping Baltimore Orioles Thursday night.

"We found out what we've been doing wrong," said Houk, milking the moment for all it was worth. "You've got to score one more run than the other team."

But it wasn't easy, despite a five-hitter by Mickey Lolich. Two Detroit errors led to four unearned runs and a 5-5 tie until Gene Michael drove home the winning run in the eighth inning with his third hit.

Lolich, 8-5, allowed only one hit over the final 5 2-3 innings after a fourth inning single by Brooks Robinson plated Baltimore's final run following an error by Detroit second baseman Gary Sutherland.

Detroit chased Baltimore starter Mike Cuellar in the second inning after piling up a 4-0 lead. But Dave Duncan cracked a three-run homer for the Orioles in the bottom of the inning after Detroit's Ron LeFlore dropped a fly ball.

Paul Blair homered for Baltimore's only untainted run in the third, making it 4-4, and each team scored an unearned run in the fourth.

"I'm a firm believer that physical mistakes are part of baseball — games are won and lost by guys making errors," Lolich said. "The mental mistakes that cost you runs are the ones you get upset about."

"But I've never said a word in my life to another player about a mistake, even if it's mental. I figure he knows he made it, and he's going to do his best to remedy it the next time."

LeFlore and Sutherland, the Tigers who made the damaging errors, each contributed to the Detroit offense and enabled Lolich to notch his 25th career victory over Baltimore — the most by an active pitcher.

LeFlore, who had three of Detroit's 12 hits, walked to open the game and Sutherland followed with a single. They scored on sacrifice flies by Dan Meyer and Bill Freehan.

In the second, Michael's double and LeFlore's triple finished Cuellar and then, LeFlore scored on a wild pitch by reliever Doyle Alexander.

Mickey Stanley's leadoff double in the eighth and Michael's two-out single pinned the defeat on Alexander, 1-5.

With Detroit's bullpen a bit overworked, Houk had no one warming in the ninth. The move surprised Lolich, who several times looked and expected to see John Hiller getting ready.

"Pitching is very much a positive mental attitude," Lolich said. "If you see someone warming up, it'll make you try harder. But when you don't see anybody warming up, you know the manager's got confidence in you and it really gives you a lift. You just get a little bit better."

Vogie Leads St. Joe Past Harbor Legion

Roger Vogie won 3-for-3 and drove home three runs to power St. Joseph Legion to a 4-1 win over Benton Harbor Thursday night in an American Legion Blue-Gray league game at Dickinson Field.

Vogie, now batting .250, swatted three singles and also added a sacrifice fly.

St. Joe, which collected seven hits, scored in the fourth on Rick Dyer's triple and a passed ball. Vogie then batted in two runs in the fifth with a single and another run in the seventh with his sacrifice fly.

Harbor ruined Roger Schwoebel's shutout bid in the final inning on consecutive singles by Chris Harper, Vernon

Schumacher Is Fastest Car Wood Qualifier

DETROIT (AP) — Billy Schumacher piloted his Weisfield's hydroplane to a lap of 127.810 miles per hour Thursday on the quiet Detroit River, hitting the fastest qualifying time of the day for the Gar Wood Trophy Race on Sunday.

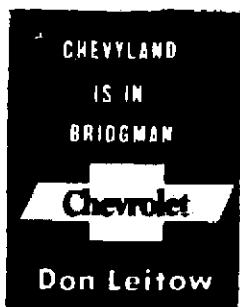

Also qualifying for the race were George Henley and defending champion Pay 'N Pak at 120.245 m.p.h., Milner Irvin and Lincoln Thrift at 117.641, Mickey Redmond and Miss Budweiser, 116.508, Bill Muncey and Atlas Van Lines, 108.149 and Bob Miller and Probe at 101.171.

Miss U.S., Mr. Fabricator, Miss Vernors and the U-81 have not qualified but got another chance today.

Schumacher said his boat has been running almost perfectly.

"We look at it this way — if it runs fine leave it. Everybody thinks we're trying to psyche them out. That's not it at all. We just don't want to wear it out."

Weisfield's is the current point leader on the hydroplane circuit.

Buc Vengeance Clips Cubs

Pirates Happy To Be Out Of Philadelphia

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

"On the whole, I'd rather be in Philadelphia."

—W.C. Fields

On the whole, the Pittsburgh Pirates are happy to be out of Philadelphia.

—Ronnie Stennett

"I talked to some friends when we got back to Pittsburgh and they seemed very disgusted about what happened in Philadelphia," Stennett said, referring to the Phillies' four-game sweep of the Bucs. "I feel we should have won three of those games but we just have to forget about that now, start over and play our game."

They played their kind of game — pitching and power — with a vengeance Thursday night.

Rookie John Candalaria provided the pitching, a five-hit, 13-strikeout performance. And Stennett provided the power with a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning that boosted the Pirates to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The blast, Stennett's fourth of the season and the Pirates' 34th in their last 26 games, moved Pittsburgh 1½ games ahead of the hard-charging Phillies in the East Division.

Only two of the five hits Candalaria allowed did any damage — homers by Andy Thornton and Tim Hosley. Richie Hebner also homered for the Pirates.

On the rest of the abbreviated National League schedule, St. Louis edged Montreal 4-3, San Francisco defeated Los Angeles 2-0 and Houston beat Atlanta 8-4.

Second baseman Ted Sizemore drilled a two-run homer to trigger a four-run eighth inning, then hauled in a game-ending liner in the ninth to preserve the Cardinals' victory over Montreal.

"I'm not a home-run hitter," he grinned. "I only hit two a year and that was one of them." A walk, an error and a hit then loaded the bases and Ken Reitz knocked in the deciding runs with a single that made it 4-1.

The Expos got two runs back in the eighth and had two men aboard in the ninth before Pat Scanlon sent a wicked shot toward right-center field. But Sizemore leaped and speared it for the final out.

The Giants jumped on 11-game winner Andy Messersmith for a pair of runs in the first inning on Bobby Murcer's single and Willie Montanez' double, then Ed Halicki made the runs stand up with a five-hitter. The loss dropped the Dodgers 4½ games behind first-place Cincinnati in the West.

While James Rodney Richard went the distance, scattering nine Atlanta hits, the Astros battered Mike Thompson and four relievers for 13 hits — three apiece by Roger Metzger and Doug Rader — and the Braves kicked in with five errors to help Houston breeze to its victory.

Former Winners Collide Today 'Point' Champions Ousted

BY JIM DELAND
Sports Editor

There'll be new champions in the Point O' Woods Invitational golf tournament this year...but they just might turn out to be old champions, too.

Former titleists Ed Schalton and Carl Mitchell kept that possibility alive Thursday by helping steer their teams to victory in the first round of the 16th annual best ball classic.

Schalton and partner Ray Steffen of Kalamazoo made sure there would be a vacancy on the throne by shooting a one-under-par 70 to eliminate defending champions Lenny Capozio and Steve Eckert 2 and 1 in the match-play tournament while Mitchell and Bill Western of Kalamazoo edged out Dave Baushke and Don Seelye, 1 up in 18 holes.

One of the two teams is guaranteed a berth in Saturday's championship match since they are paired in today's semifinals, which pit Dr. Ron Grow and Stan Gebo against Dick Marzke and Bill Yates in the other bracket.

Grow and Gebo — last year's runners-up — defeated Bruce Laing Jr. and Jim Evashovski

2 and 1 in Thursday's play while Marzke and Yates polished off Tom Schick and Bob Pollard 3 and 1.

Schalton, who has won the tournament four times with three different partners, birdied two of the last four holes as he and Steffen avenged last year's opening-round loss to the same opponents.

He dropped a four-foot putt for a birdie four on the 15th hole and then rolled in a 30-footer for a birdie two on the 17th to close out the match after Eckert had kept his team alive with a 15-foot birdie putt on the 16th.

"Ed played very well today," Eckert said graciously. "He made a great par on to save the sixth hole with a sand iron shot four feet from the pin and then knocked us out of it there at the end."

"Lenny and I didn't play that badly, but we just couldn't make anything until those last three holes, and then it was too late."

Mitchell and Western — the 1972 champions — never trailed in their match against Baushke and Seelye, but still needed a clutch six-foot birdie putt by Western on the final hole to avoid a sudden-death playoff.

Let me tell you what our opponents did," Mitchell grinned. "It looked like we only needed a par to win the last hole, but Seelye one-hops it out of the trap into the hole for a par. Then we really needed Bill's putt."

Mitchell and Western finished with a medal score of 72 — one shot better than their opponents, who came from behind three times to tie the match before the decisive final hole.

The Grow-Gebo and Marzke-Yates teams both shot one-under scores of 70 while posting slightly less nerve-wracking victories.

A 15-foot birdie putt by Grow on the 11th hole and a super par on the 12th hole by Gebo put them 3-up at that point and Gebo applied the coup de grace by snaking in a tricky 25-foot putt on the 16th after birdies by Evashovski at 13 and Laing at 15 had cut their lead to one.

"That about did it," Laing said of Gebo's big putt. "I guess it just wasn't our day."

Marzke and Yates were 4-up with four holes to go after Marzke steered in a 40-foot birdie putt on the 14th hole, but it appeared that the tide might have turned when they bogied — and lost — the next two holes and Pollard put his tee shot 15 feet from the pin on the 17th for a possible birdie shot.

But Marzke then pulled out his two-iron and stuck his tee shot three feet from the cup, dropped the putt for a birdie and it was all over.

All teams will continue play today, with those eliminated from the match play competition shooting for the medal play trophy awarded to the team with the low 54-hole score.

Stevensville Girl Tops In Bowling Tourney

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

For an 11-year-old girl, Bonnie Jorgensen packs quite a bowling wallop.

The 85-pound Stevensville kegler burnt up the lanes last Saturday in capturing first place in the Youth Bowling Association (YBA) state tournament finals in Alpena.

Bonnie took prep division honors over 100 bowlers from all across the state by rolling a 686 handicap series and a super scratch series of 159-155-171-485. Her 686 total was the highest handicap score in any of the four girls' age divisions, which run to age 18.

Linda Mummaw of Benton Harbor also added prestige to the Blossom Lanes YBA program as she placed second in the junior girls' division with a 629 handicap and 141-137-168-446 scratch.

Bonnie, daughter of Bob and Kay Jorgensen, was very relaxed while bowling the trophy-winning series.

"She was very relaxed...the adults were the nervous ones," comments Kay, who accompanied Bonnie to Alpena along with Bob, daughter Danette and the girls' grandmother, Irene Jorgensen. "I'm sorry (Folmer) couldn't be here to see her...he would have been proud. But Irene was the one who got her started at Blossom Lanes."

Irene formerly was in charge of the YBA program at Blossom Lanes. Bonnie started bowling under Irene when she was seven.

Bonnie, who will attend sixth grade at Stevensville elementary school this fall, and Danette, 13, have already hauled in a ton of trophies in their brief bowling careers.

"The two girls have 30 trophies and three plaques already," notes Kay. "Bonnie also won a medal in the CanAm Games last year. But Saturday's first place was the biggest yet."

Bonnie and Danette both carried 116 averages last season at Blossom Lanes.

"Bonnie is a real natural," relates Kay. "She throws the most beautiful hook I've ever seen...it goes to the same place every time."

Bonnie's parents are no slouches on the alleys. Bob and Kay both carry high averages and bowl together in the Sunday Night Six O'Clock Mixed league at Gersonde's. Folmer and his brother Russ Jorgensen also were top-notch bowlers in their hey-days.

Bonnie got a double treat last week.

"I don't know if she was more excited winning the tournament or getting a new horse," laughs Kay. "When she came home Sunday the horse was there."

Bonnie also won first in the prep division in the area YBA tourney last May at Rainbow Lanes in Paw Paw. She grabbed honors with 667 handicap and 148-163-155-466 scratch.

Bonnie will receive her trophy in a banquet for state winners Aug. 10 at Kalamazoo. Linda, 14, missed first place by only four pins in competition in the junior division with 633 taking top spot.

Linda, who will attend Benton Harbor high in the fall, averaged 123 at Blossom Lanes last season and also placed second in the area qualifying at Paw Paw.

Both Bonnie and Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Mummaw, are coached by Tresa Gustine, head of the YBA junior program at Blossom Lanes.

"Both girls are real conscientious bowlers," Tresa observes. "Both girls' parents are bowlers and interested in the sport...that makes a big difference."

"Bonnie has really picked up this year. She throws a real nice ball and has a nice approach. Bob and Kay have taken the time to really work with her."

Bench Sets New All-Star Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench of Cincinnati has become the first player in history to draw more than 1 million National League All-Star ballots for the sixth consecutive year, the baseball commissioner's office announced Friday.

With 10 days remaining in the voting, the Reds catcher is also the individual voting leader in the tabulations with 1,690,229 votes.

All the leaders retained their positions from the initial standings two weeks ago, though some are being threatened as the July 6th deadline draws near.

Cincinnati's Joe Morgan has a comfortable lead for the second base spot with 1,450,660 votes to 414,480 for Rennie Stennett, while Red's shortstop Dave Concepcion polled 1,259,681 ballots for a margin of 479,066 over Larry Bowa of Philadelphia.

Ron Cey of Los Angeles continues to be the fans' favorite third baseman, gathering 992,882 votes to outdistance Joe Torre of New York, with 459,375.

Pete Rose of Cincinnati leads the outfield race with 1,200,815 votes and Del Unser has tightened his grip on second place with 706,657.

However, Rusty Staub's third-place ranking with 639,865 was whittled by base-stealing king Lou Brock of St. Louis. Brock has attracted 609,970 votes and jumped from sixth to fourth place, just 29,895 behind Staub. Los Angeles' Jim Wynn is also a strong contender with 599,043, while Reggie Smith of St. Louis trails with 582,290.

Steve Garvey of Los Angeles, winner of the 1974 Commissioner's Trophy as the All-Star Game's Most Valuable Player, improved his first base advantage slightly over Cincinnati's Tony Perez, drawing 928,308 votes to 892,873 for the challenger, an edge of 35,435 votes. Garvey's lead was a mere 5,963 last week.

'Other' Graham Star At Western With 65

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Australian David Graham, not to be confused with newly-crowned U.S. Open Champion Lou Graham, carried a course-record 65 and a three-stroke lead over "a little more confident" Arnold Palmer into today's second round of the $200,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

Still the people's choice, runnerup Palmer shot an opening 68 over Butler National Golf Club's course with the same par 71 and rated almost as tough as nearby Medinah Country Club, the scene of last week's strange "Backup Open."

Palmer, without a victory since 1973, was cheered after displaying "more confidence in my game than I've had in a long time. I thought I had it in the Open — it was almost there, but not quite."

Graham, who tied for 29th in last week's Open, missed only two greens en route to his superb 33-32 round which included six birdies and the rest pars. That 65 broke the Butler course record of 67 by Tom Evans in the second round of last year's Western. Evans' Thursday opened with an 11-over-par 82.

Tied for third in the pursuit of the Western's $40,000 top purse were Jerry Heard and newcomer Gary Wintz at two-under-par 69, while Argentina's Florentino Molina was next at 70.

Knotted at even par 71 were 1974 U.S. Open Champion Hale Irwin, John Schlee, Gibby Gilbert, Don Bies, Al Geiberger, Ed Sneed, Charles Coody, Miller Barber, Dave Eichelberger, and Jim Simon.

She Gets 'Kick' Out Of Golf

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Nancy Fitzgerald has more trouble than most golfers on the greens. Everytime she starts to putt, she gets kicked.

There's a good reason, though — she's eight months pregnant. "Everytime I get in position to putt, the baby starts to kick," Mrs. Fitzgerald explained Thursday shortly after moving into the semifinals of the Indianapolis women's city tournament.

"I guess she isn't happy in that position."

Bridgman's Gary Groh fired a 39-37-76.

Defending champion Tom Watson was far back with a 78, while John Mahaffey, who Monday lost to Lou Graham in their playoff for the Open title at Medinah, dropped out of the starting field of 136 because of a chest cold after playing eight holes at six over par.

Lou Graham, along with Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Gary Player, skipped the Western.

Melbourne-born Dave Graham, 29, scored his only victory since joining the U.S. pro tour in 1971 with a triumph in the 1972 Cleveland Open. He stands 61st in the current money list with $21,778.

They were all bunched at 143 for the only other sub-par totals after 36 holes on the soggy, 7,120-yard course.

Defending champion Wake Forest's lead in the team chase was down to a paltry three strokes, but the Deacons' veteran coach, Jesse Haddock, was undismayed.

Wake Forest posted a four-man total of 581 to 584 for Oklahoma State. Alabama and Brigham Young shared third at 590, Florida and Indiana fifth at 597.

Haddock checked the big scoreboard and noted Oklahoma State's fifth man, noncounting Mike Clayton was at 158, 10 shots behind the Cowboys' fourth player.

"My worst man, David Thoré, is only one shot behind our fourth player," suggested Haddock.

Max Adani Real 'Survivor' In Michigan Amateur Golf

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. (AP) — When young Max Adani said Thursday, "I'm just happy to be alive," he wasn't talking about surviving his first two matches in the 64th Michigan Amateur Golf Championship.

The 23-year-old Fraser golfer was lucky he wasn't killed Monday when he was involved in a car accident en route to Harbor Springs for a practice round.

The auto, driven by Greg Palmer of Mount Clemens, collided with another car on U.S. 131 and the top was sheared off.

"There was blood all over the place," Adani said. "Greg was pinned under the steering wheel. It was unbelievable he wasn't unconscious. I pulled him out, then the ambulance took us to the hospital."

Adani suffered only cuts and bruises and refused to drop out of the tournament. Palmer broke a toe and withdrew.

Tuesday, Adani fired a 70 at Harbor Point, the Harbor Springs course where he has never practiced. Then he shot a 73 at Belvedere in Charlevoix to qualify easily for match play at 145.

The early haired graduate of Morehead State University in Kentucky disposed of John Ortiz of Grand Blanc, 1-up in 19 holes Thursday morning, then ousted Rob Brewster of Orchard Lake, 5 and 4 in the afternoon.

Adani joined 15 others heading into today's quarter-final rounds at Belvedere.

Failing to win even the first match were tournament medalist Jeff Reaume of Ypsilanti and five-time champion Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile. Reaume lost to 18-year-old Tom Mase of EastLansing, 1-up, while Johnson was upended by Milford's Bob Hamilton, 1-up in 22 holes.

Three-time winner Bud Stevens of Livonia won his two matches.

Others in the "sweet sixteen" are brothers Tom and Bob Proben of Detroit, Grand Rapids golfers Al Dimavicius and Richard Norton, Dan Pohl of Mount Pleasant and Mike Dore of Dearborn.

Also winning were Flint's Keith Mohan and Jon Lovegrove, Guy Billings of East Lansing, Ken Allard of Ann Arbor, Pete Owens of Livonia, Jim Turner of St. Clair Shores and former National Public champ Bill McDonald of Pontiac.

Both of southwestern Michigan's qualifiers went out in the first round.

Dave St. Aubin of Paw Paw was eliminated by Pohl 6 and 4 while Steve Wells of Dowagiac lost to John Havins of Troy 1-up in 19 holes.

Mohan was runnerup last year to buddy Rod Sumpter, who has since turned pro. Sumpter followed Mohan around the plush Belvedere course Thursday.

Adani's morning opponent today was McDonald. Owens went up against Turner, Mohan faced Allard, and Billings faced Stevens. The other four matches put Mase against Tom Proben, and drive in one.

Security Strict Even For Gloves

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Two pairs of bright red eight-ounce boxing gloves spent the night in sealed boxes behind the high walls of central prison.

"I been fighting 20 years and I never saw them put no gloves in jail before," Muhammad Ali said. Heavyweight champion Ali and British challenger Joe Bugner had selected the gloves they will wear in Tuesday's title fight. Security for the gloves is as strict as for everything else involving the match.

"Four gloves gotta go to jail," Ali chuckled. "Boy, you sure are careful over here."

Organizers of the first battle for the heavyweight crown in this part of the world are tightening the security screen as the contest nears. Extra guards were posted Friday at Merdeka Stadium and casual visitors were barred.

Security at the mid-morning bout on July 1 will be as rigid as for any single event in this country's troubled history, a police source said. The usual measures to control crowds and protect the boxers are being extended.

Special seating arrangements are planned to keep the throng from getting too close to his majesty, known as the Yang Di-Pertuan Agong, or Paramount ruler. King Tuanku Abdul Halim Mu'adzam Shah Ibn. Al-Marhum Sultan Badlishah, 46, is a lame duck, his five-year term expiring on Sept. 21.

A new constitutional monarch and deputy were elected by the country's nine royal houses last week. It was not known how much royalty would see Ali vs. Bugner, but at least one sultan was expected in addition to the king.

Uniquely Malaysian security problems are posed by communal stress between the Muslim majority and the Chinese minority and by the communist underground.

Devout Black Muslim Ali may inadvertently rouse communal feeling, one diplomat said this week. Ali prays at local mosques each Friday and has delivered several fervent lectures on the greatness of Islam and how Allah helps him in the ring.

Swarms of Ali fans seem mostly made up of Malay Muslims. Bugner followers include more Chinese and other non-Malay citizens.

The organizers have taken special pains to have Bugner visit Muslim schools and get Ali photographed with Chinese school children, the diplomat said.

Pitchers' Night In Connie Mack

It was The Night of the Pitcher Thursday in the Southwest Connie Mack league.

Dave Wright pitched a two-hitter and struck out seven as North Lincoln blanked Waterliet 5-0. Paw Paw's Rod Austin pitched a one-hitter as his team squeaked by South Haven 1-0.

North Lincoln jumped on losing pitcher Andy Edge in the first inning for three runs. Bill Strine drove in Dave Baker and Mike Priebe with a triple and then came home on an error.

In the fourth inning, Barry Coburn and Dan Streick reached base on errors, and then Baker knocked Coburn in with the second of his four singles. He also scored two runs and drive in one.

Bernie Christopher drove in the last run in the sixth with a double.

North Lincoln is now 2-4 this season while Waterliet is 2-6.

Austin and Jody Haumerson locked up in a real pitchers duel, with neither allowing a run through six innings. Haumerson had given up just four hits and Austin none until the seventh.

A crucial error got Austin on base in the last inning. Two sacrifices got him to third, and Leroy Rushing drove him home with a beautiful suicide squeeze bunt.

Rushing had two of the five Paw Paw hits, getting a double and a single. Jim Sankofski pushed a single through the infield in the seventh for the only South Haven hit.

Paw Paw remains unbeaten after four games and South Haven is 1-4.

Pitchers' Night In Connie Mack

Kickers Finish Spring Season

The St. Joseph Kickers will conclude the spring soccer season Saturday by hosting Holland in a 3 p.m. West Michigan Soccer League game on their home field near Arden.

The Kickers currently own first place in the league's East Division with a 6-1-3 record.

Their undefeated Junior A team will also complete spring play Saturday in a 2 p.m. game against Spring Arbor college at Jackson.

Lutheran Wins

Jeff Klapp rifled three hits, including a homer, and Bill Broge added a home run as Christ Lutheran edged Trinity 8-7 Thursday in a St. Joseph Church league softball contest. Katz had three hits for Trinity.

In another game, St. Paul's downed Christian Reformed 9-5 with Frank Smith pounding a homer and double and Larry Molloy collecting two singles. John Howard was the winning pitcher. Dave Kelt swatted two hits for the losers.

Plangger pitched the Benton Harbor squad to a 2-1 second game triumph after son Rick lost the opener 4-1 on a five-hit-ter.

Fred Chabot knocked in both runs in the win with a pair of singles, while Jack Mucia was adding a double to a four-hit attack. Vic Gillette knocked in the only run in the opener, where Plangger's had five hits.

Plangger's, now 11-18, plays again at 9:30 tonight against Puchey Radiator of Kokomo, Ind., in the eight-team, double elimination Mishawaka Invitational.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Winning pitcher Riemland hit a home run, double and a single to power the Reds to a 16-5 win over the Yanks. Stuber had two doubles for the Yanks and Wohler took the loss.

W. Welsher pitched a one-hitter as the Giants' beat the Cubs 14-1. DiVanni had two hits for the winners and King notched the only hit for the Cubs.

ELKS CUB SOFTBALL

Blair Carlson, A. Schultz, Milton Agay, Jim Bush and Justin Hobby all hit homers for the Bears in their 22-12 win over the Seals. Bill Learned smashed two homers for the Seals.

Greg Pullins smacked two homers as the Coyotes clipped the Panthers 11-7. Kip Kimmerly also hit two round-trippers for the Panthers.

Jim Gillespie hit a homer and double and took the hill win as the Rams routed the Lions 19-7. Petey Gonzalez, Kip Bushert and Mike Likes all swatted triples.

The Wolves snapped the Gators 18-9 with John Evans tripling and Chris Arent and Tom Brown doubling. For the Gators, Joe Wallace hit a homer and double, Earl Morse a home run and Doug Janz went 3-for-4.

MINOR LEAGUE

Tom Fowler and John Zimnerly each had triples as the Mets beat the Dodgers 15-14. Andrew Schrubba got the win as Chris Isaac added two doubles for the winners.

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — "We've got a real vintage crop of left-handers," said Capt. Mike Gibson, Wimbledon Tennis Championship referee.

Led by defending men's champion Jimmy Connors, the left-handers are giving massive Wimbledon crowds the best display of southpaw tennis since Australia's Rod Laver won the men's title four times in the 1960's.

Connors and the three other lefties among the men's seeds have breezed through to the final 16.

A restrained, poetry-loving Argentinian, Guillermo Vilas, is ranked No. 4 and playing confidently after taking the Grand Prix and Masters titles this season.

Roscoe Tanner, the powerful left-hander from Lookout Mountain, Tenn., has had Wimbledon crowds in awe at the speed of his blinding serve, once measured at 140 m.p.h.

Veteran Australian Tony Roche, a finalist in 1968, has revised his hopes with straight set wins in his first two matches.

"For some reason left-handers always seem to do well here," said Gibson. "For one thing they have an advantage because right-handers most often play other right-handers and are unsettled when they come up against lefties." As for women, until now there's only been one great left-hander in recent memory — Ann Jones of Britain, who defeated Billie Jean King for the title in 1969.

But this year, the No. 2 seed is the left-handed Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia, an 18-year-old who came to Wimbledon in top form and looks a tough challenger for defending champion Chris Evert.

Connors, 22, played with supreme confidence Thursday against British left-hander Mark Cox, a recent winner on the U.S. circuit.

After Connors' 6-4, 6-2, 6-2 victory, Cox picked Tanner as the man most likely to upset the champion.

"The person who serves best against him will do well, and someone like Tanner could be the man. But he'll have to play great because motivation is a big part of Jimmy's game and he's obviously very keen to win again," said Cox.

The right-handed challenge remains potent, however, with top seeds Ken Rosewall of Australia, Bjorn Borg of Sweden, American Arthur Ashe and Raul Ramirez of Mexico all winning on Thursday.

Only Borg had to work hard. He lost the first set 0-6, before subduing Jaime Fillol of Chile by taking the next three sets 6-1, 6-3, 6-3. He also had to subdue his teenage girl fans — they were asked to stop trying to talk to him as he waited to return service.

Berrien Court Jails Pair

Two Benton township teens were given jail sentences yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court for sex offenses involving a 15-year-old girl.

Also in district court Thursday one person demanded examination, 13 were sentenced and a charge against one was dismissed.

Sentenced on misdemeanor charges of accosting a child for immoral purposes were Charles L. Fitzer, 18, of 1172 Summer street, and Ricky E. Turner, 17, of 971 North Shore drive, both of Benton township.

Fitzer was sentenced to pay $450 fine and costs and to spend 75 days in jail while Turner was given a jail sentence of 270 days. Both were put on one year's probation.

Pelony charges of criminal sexual conduct of the first and third degrees were dismissed against both. The charges stem from an incident involving a 15-year-old girl April 29 in St. Joseph township. Both were sentenced by Judge Ronald J. Taylor.

Demanding examination was: James E. Petersen, 30, of route 1, US-12, Galien, on two counts of criminal sexual conduct of the first degree. The charges allege sexual involvement with a 13-year-old girl June 16 and 25 in Galien township. He was jailed in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Also sentenced yesterday were:

Ronald A. Merritt, 24, of 662 Madison, Benton Harbor, three days in jail and $100 in fines and court costs or 30 days total in jail for driving while license suspended. He was also placed on probation.

Duane N. Hicks, 19, of 844 East Washington, Benton Harbor, $16 for assault and battery March 16 against Delores Williams in Benton Harbor.

Andrew A. Fontenot, 19, Crowley, La., 90 days or $200 for a firearms safety inspection violation June 14 in Royalton township. Judge Leo K. Cook reported the sentence would be suspended if Fontenot left for Louisiana immediately.

Kevin B. Hartfield, 19, of 781 East Washington, Benton Harbor, $50 for the use of marijuana June 22 in Benton township.

Larry D. Smith, 20, of 1191 Pavone, Benton Harbor, $50 for the use of marijuana June 22 in Benton township. Cynthia M. Holden, 23, of 1731 Sweet, Benton Harbor, $121 for larceny under $100 (a 9-volt battery) from Family Foods store, Benton township on April 8.

Emanuel R. Webb, 21, of 6051 1/2 Columbus, Benton Harbor, $500 for the use of heroin April 10 in Benton township.

Bennie R. McKiry, 24, of Detroit, three days and $90 for driving while license suspended June 23 in Chikaming township. Stuart D. Garthe, 30, Kalamazoo, $151 for impaired driving Feb. 22 in Chikaming township. John B. Quinn, 58, of route 1, Hinchman road, Baroda, $151 or 30 days in jail for driving under the influence of intoxicants June 25 in Baroda township.

Joseph E. Yakim, 29, of Dowagiac, 30 days and $310 or a total of 60 days for driving under the influence of intoxicants (second offense) June 4. He was credited with 22 days already served.

Sam E. Gage, 45, of Detroit, three days and $61 or a total of 15 days for driving while license suspended June 19 in Benton township.

Robert J. Sullivan, 36, of Dunkirk, Ind., $101 or 20 days in jail for impaired driving June 26 in Oronoko township.

A charge of issuing a nonsufficient funds check over $50 was dismissed by Prosecutor John Snietanka against William L. Redding, 22, San Bernardino, Cal., because investigation revealed prosecution was not warranted.

SENTENCED: Jack L. Chestnut, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's former campaign manager, was sentenced in New York Thursday to four months in prison and fined $5,000 for arranging unlawful dairymen's donations to Humphrey's 1970 Senate campaign. (AP Wirephoto)

Accused Slayer In Court

A Chicago man charged with the shooting death of a guest at a New Buffalo wedding party earlier this month was bound over to Berrien circuit court yesterday.

Preliminary examination for Raymond Gonzales, 41, Chicago, lasted nearly four hours in Fifth District Judge John T. Hammond's court before Gonzales was bound over on an open charge of murder.

Gonzales remained free on $50,000 bond. He is charged with killing Ronald L. Carpenter, 28, Michigan City, Ind.

Carpenter was killed while at a wedding party in New Buffalo June 8. The party was part of a celebration for Gonzales' niece who had been married the day before the shooting.

Hammond said the mother of the bride and Carpenter's fiancée were the principal witnesses yesterday.

The Right Place And Right Time

It was all luck—good for Benton Harbor police, bad for a Benton Harbor youth arrested on a charge of breaking and entering early this morning. Police said they responded to a trouble call at a house across the street from Wolf's Grocery, 449 Pipestone street. Before officers could get out of the car, however, they received a report of a burglar alarm going off at the closed grocery store.

Patrolman Ken Webster said he went to the front of the store and a youth walked out the door and gave up without a struggle when confronted with Webster's drawn revolver. No shots were fired.

Booked at the Berrien jail was Terry Dyer, 17, of 442 Pipestone street. Two 12-packs of beer and two bottles of wine were confiscated.

Police said the trouble call at the house was unfounded.

REPORT'S IN

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan has submitted its planned use report on general revenue sharing funds for 1975-76 to the U.S. Department of Treasury, Gov. William Milliken said Thursday.

GM Recalls Workers

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. said Thursday it will recall at least 6,600 hourly workers from indefinite layoff in August, when it increases production at four car assembly plants.

Some 4,400 idled Michigan workers in Pontiac, Flint and Lansing will be affected by the production changes.

The recalls, effective with the start of the 1976-model run, are part of the auto giant's previously announced plans to reduce layoffs by 16,000 before the end of the summer.

Separated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Fabian Forte, 1950s pop music idol, and his actress wife, Kathleen, have separated after nine years of marriage.

The breakup, announced Thursday, was described as amicable.

Man Gets Probation

A Benton township man who was apprehended last December amidst loot stolen from a Benton Harbor home was placed on three years probation yesterday in Berrien circuit court. Sentenced by Judge William S. White for breaking and entering an occupied dwelling was Milton Johnson, 21, of 175 Charles street. In addition to the probationary term, White levied fine and costs of $250. Johnson on Dec. 29 broke into the home of Ronald Daisy, 1081 Agard, and was arrested outside the house near a pile of stolen loot, including radios, a shotgun, TV, jewelry, amplifier, eight-track tape player, and a record player.

The recent highlighting of the C.I.A.'s alleged assassination plots against various foreign leaders — (in many cases actually contingency plans) — has set off a wave of delirium among right-wing commentators. The purpose of their exercise is to demonstrate that Richard M. Nixon, after all, was a minor-league rogue ridden out of the Presidency on a rail by the liberal establishment.

In practice, they are dancing on the graves of former President John Kennedy and his brother, Robert, the Attorney General. The most extreme example was Patrick Buchanan's suggestion that the Kennedy brothers be expelled from Arlington National Cemetery if they were responsible for the death of Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem in Nov., 1963. (This is reminiscent of the Stuart Restoration to the British crown in 1660: one of Charles II's first acts was to disinter the corpse of Oliver Cromwell and sling it from a gibbet on Tyburn Hill.)

It is easy to make the accusation that Kennedy killed Diem, but extremely difficult to lay out the actual events without boring the reader to death with detail. However, the reality was complex and any intelligent analysis of it must reflect reality. For openers, it should be said that President Kennedy did not want Diem killed and instructed Ambassador Lodge in Saigon to this effect.

But the question immediately arises: To what extent did Kennedy's objective actions lead to the unanticipated murder of Diem and his brother Nhu? There is a legal parallel known as felony-murder. If, for example, somebody commits arson, burning down a house without realizing that there are a couple of drunks asleep in it, he is indictable for felony-murder.

Clearly there were high officials in the Kennedy Administration who had no qualms about Diem's future. For example, Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, Roger Hilsman, in an Aug. 30, 1963 memo to Secretary of State Dean Rusk discussed a number of possible Diem actions and suggested the appropriate American responses. Option 10 was "Diem-Nhu Move" (against a coup): "A Götterdämmerung in the Palace" and recommended the following "U.S. Response": "(a) We should encourage the coup group to fight the battle to the end and to destroy the Palace if necessary to gain victory; (b) unconditional surrender should be the terms for the Ngo family since it will otherwise seek to outmaneuver both the coup forces and the U.S. If the family is taken alive, the Nhuses should be banished to France. . . Diem should be treated as the generals wish."

Since Dean Rusk looked on Hilsman as something of a public nuisance, there is no reason to believe that this line accurately expounded departmental policy. Moreover, to limit Buchanan's proposed exhumations, there is no written evidence to indicate that Robert Kennedy took a hand in the game.

To summarize a long story, President Kennedy and National Security Advisor McGeorge Bundy were getting conflicting signals from the two top men in the American mission. Following traditional bureaucratic patterns, throughout Oct., 1963, the messages to Lodge from Bundy were masterpieces of ambiguity, written in what might be called the conditional-subjective tense. In effect, the ball was handed to Lodge with the injunction don't "thwart" a winning coup, but don't get tied up with a crowd of losers.

Lodge gave the plotters the green light, the coup was launched, and Diem called the Ambassador at 4:30 p.m. on Nov. 1 to ask what he planned to do. Lodge said it was impossible to get an immediate answer from Washington and offered Diem sanctuary: "If I can do anything for your physical safety, please call me." Diem: "I am trying to reestablish order."

In short, like the Cambodian patriot Sirik Matak, who recently refused evacuation from Phnom Penh as "cowardly," Diem, the Catholic mandarin, took his fate in his own hands and, like Matak, was murdered. Now I leave it to you: Was President Kennedy "responsible"?

Reasoner's Newsmagazine Making Its Final Show

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's weekly newsmagazine show, "The Reasoner Report," airs its final program Saturday with highlights of various stories and features seen on the show since it began in February 1973.

It's being replaced by a regular half-hour evening newscast.

ABC News President William Sheehan has said the change was ordered because ABC affiliates preferred a regular network newscast in the early Saturday evening time slot in which the "Reasoner Report" now appears.

But Harry Reasoner, who anchors the show as well as the network's weeknight newscasts, says he's certain there'll be another weekly newsmagazine program on ABC but probably not during next season.

"I hope there'll be one, because one of the things I really miss is the chance to go out three, four times a year and play reporter on a major story and I hope to find a way to do that," he said.

Reasoner, whose weeknight anchor duties tend to keep him tied down in New York City, was asked if, in retrospect, he wished his weekend show had been given a Sunday night slot, like CBS' "60 Minutes."

"I do," said the 52-year-old newsman, a veteran of 14 years with CBS before he joined ABC in December 1970. "My preferred time all along was 10:30 on Sunday nights."

"I think our main problem was station clearances," Reasoner added, referring to stations that preferred to air their own local programs early Saturday evenings instead of the "Reasoner Report."

"The show did well where it was and there was a good audience out there," he said. "But it was on during such a good local time for the stations and they just hated to give that time up."

In August 1965, the predominantly black community of Watts in Los Angeles was devastated by a six-day riot that left 34 dead, nearly 900 injured and property damage estimated at $45 million.

On Sunday night, NBC News is airing a one-hour news special, "A Country Called Watts," which looks back at that violence, what happened after it ended and what conditions are like there now.

The show, co-reported by Tom Pettit, a white, and Gail Christian, a black, interviews a variety of Watts residents, including Marquette Frye, whose attempted arrest by a highway patrol on suspicion of drunken driving, ultimately led to the riots that tore Watts apart.

The program effectively uses aerial footage, old and new, to illustrate what was destroyed and what was or wasn't rebuilt.

Alas, the show has a tendency to somewhat shallow interviews and doesn't dig very deeply into such key issues as why the federal anti-poverty funds lavishly poured into Watts after the riot now are nil.

There are a lot of generalizations — "politicians became weary of the poverty game — the money was too big and the pay-off was too slow" — but no interviews with the fund administrators to back it up.

SJ Man Will Take Fast Course In Portuguese

Michael Stratton McKinney is taking a crash, 10-week course in Portuguese at the University of South Carolina so he will be able to study Brazilian commerce this fall.

McKinney, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McKinney, 2263 Ann drive, St. Joseph township, graduated from Michigan State university this month with a degree in business administration.

He joined 110 students from 20 states and 12 foreign nations in the University of South Carolina graduate program, leading to a master's degree in international business studies.

After the 10-week intense language training the students will take such courses as international economics, personnel and labor relations, organizational structure and others.

Included in the USC program is a six-month internship of overseas work experience. McKinney will be going to Brazil but he does not know what part of that country.

The program was begun at USC because of the state's high ranking in the amount of direct foreign investments coming into the nation (fourth). Upon completion of the program, the student should possess the versatility and knowledge which will allow him to function comfortably in a foreign culture.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Pauses In Climb

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was little changed today in a pause after six consecutive sessions of gains.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up a fraction, while gainers and losers stood almost exactly even on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted that weekly statistics issued after Thursday's close by the Federal Reserve Board had given rise to some hopes for an easing in the recent upsurge in short term interest rates.

The data showed a decline in business loans at major New York banks and a drop in the nation's money supply. With the money supply turning downward, there were some hopes that the Fed could adopt a less restrictive credit policy.

But the market also had to contend with profit taking pressures after a rise of more than 46 points in the Dow since the middle of last week.

American Airlines was unchanged at 7 1/2 in a 120,900-share block trade shortly after the opening.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average inched up 1.41 to 874.14 to set another 15-month high.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 3-2 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index rose .11 to 50.62.

Big Board volume expanded to 24.56 million shares from 21.61 million the day before.

The American Stock Exchange market value index gained .42 to 92.70.

Hearing 'Off'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A special state House committee studying the possibility of legalized casino gambling has cancelled its June 30 public hearing in Saginaw because the full House is scheduled to begin its session at 2 p.m. that day, rather than at the usual 8 p.m.

Michigan Peach Growers Invited On LaPorte Tour

Southwestern Michigan area peach growers have been invited to join the Indiana Horticulture society for a two-day tour of orchards and farm markets in nearby LaPorte county, Ind., July 1 and 2.

On the first morning, the tour will visit the Garwood Orchards just west of LaPorte, operated by Gene, Carl and Jim Garwood. Extensive plantings of both fruits and vegetables for U-pick and for sale at their farm market will be viewed, as will the retail sales operation. An afternoon stop will be at the Arndt Orchards to see retail sales facilities.

The second day will start at the John Hancock Fruit farms to see both production and retail operations. The afternoon stop is scheduled at the Sunacre Fruit farms operated by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schuck, Jr., with a retail and packing facility and several blocks of dwarf apples as the main points of interest.

NILES BANK

Shareholders Will Vote On Conversion

NILES — A shareholders' special meeting will be held in the Holiday Inn at 10 a.m. July 22 to vote on a proposal to convert The First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan into a bank holding company called Western Michigan corporation.

The plan calls for a tax-free exchange of bank shares for holding company stock on a 1-for-1 trade.

Approval requires a two-thirds affirmation by First National stockholders. Any dissenting owners in excess of the two-thirds requirement, should approval be voted, will be paid in cash following appraisal of their stock's value.

Adopting the holding company format is basic to a plan launched over a year ago to enable First National to expand further into banking and into certain non-banking functions authorized by Congress in the late 1960s.

As a first step in that direction First National in 1974 enlarged its capital structure by a 10 per cent stock dividend and the sale of additional shares on a 1-for-8 basis.

Should the July 22d meeting deliver a favorable verdict, First National's management intends to seek finalization of preliminary negotiations whereby The First National Bank of Cassopolis would be merged into the holding company.

Pollution Price Tag Opinions Sought

By JIM KEEGSTRA
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Public Service Commission will seek a wide range of critical comments on a study showing it could cost electric utilities nearly $1.5 billion to comply with Michigan antipollution laws by 1980.

William R. Ralls, the three-member commission's lone Democrat, said Thursday the study contains some "provocative conclusions." The commission has invited comments on the environmental protection study from consumer and environmental groups, state agencies and the PSC's staff, he said.

The study urged the PSC to become active for the first time in the state and federal process which set allowable pollution limits.

The study will get a thorough public airing before the commission decides whether to adopt its recommendations, said William Rosenberg, commission chairman. Cost of the $70,000 one-year report submitted last week was borne by utilities as is the rest of the PSC's budget, Rosenberg said.

Assuming a seven per cent annual inflation rate, by 1980 electric bills could rise about 121 per cent over 1973 rates, the study said.

Some 31 per cent of that amount would be for pollution control equipment required under present laws while the remaining 90 per cent would go for other expected cost increases.

However, if weaker regulations were imposed, rate increases could be held to 94 per cent total, with antipollution equipment accounting for only four per cent, the study said.

Another clean-air method, the more stringent emissions approach, involves removing as much coal and oil fire pollutants as is possible from power plant smokestacks. The study said this could cause utility rate hikes of 125 per cent and cost the power companies almost $1.75 billion by 1980. The emissions approach would cause a 35 per cent rate increase on top of the 90 per cent cost increase expected for other areas, the study said.

The three-member PSC should get involved in deciding how strict clean air standards should be, the report said without stipulating which set of standards the commission ought to support.

After 1980, equipment costs and rate hikes for meeting environmental regulations "should fall off dramatically," said the study by ICF Inc., a consulting firm headed by former federal environmental officials.

The nation has been catching up with years of past pollution and installing cleaning units on old generating plants during this decade. In the next 10 years, only new plants will need antipollution devices, which are cheaper to build during construction, the report said.

Charmaine Farmer, 300 Brunson avenue, reported $207 in cash was taken from its hiding place in her home.

Mike Schadler, 1891 Union street, Benton township, told told police a revolver, tape player and radio, all valued at $200, were taken from his car while it was parked in a lot in the 800 block of Valley drive.

A motorcycle and household goods were reported stolen to Benton township police in two separate incidents.

Larry Trail, 1200 East Empire avenue, said the cycle, valued at $475, was taken from outside his home.

Rose Ella Ware, 1032 Blossom lane, said two lamps and a radio, valued at about $200, were taken during a break in.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Thieves' Getaway Runs Out Of Gas

Thieves didn't get far yesterday because the car they picked to steal didn't have a gas tank.

Benton Harbor police reported the car, owned by Rick Jennings, 444 Montezuma road, Fairplain, was parked at Price's Sunoco service station, 889 Pipestone street, for repairs. The hotwired car got only as far as the street just outside the station.

Esther Light, 717 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor, told city police Thursday she walked out of the K-Mart store, 455 Riverview drive, and saw a man in the back seat of her car.

She said she began screaming and the man fled on foot. An unidentified bystander apprehended a man running from the scene and held him until a security guard arrived, police said. A search of the area turned up a canvas bag with a disassembled 12 gauge shotgun inside and police arrested Vincent C. Guidry, 21, of 837 Hall street, Benton township, on a charge of violation of the federal firearms act. He was booked at the Berrien jail.

A 15-year-old Benton Harbor boy was to be petitioned to juvenile court on a charge of gambling after he was picked up by Benton Harbor police in Hall park, Highland avenue. He was turned over to the custody of his parents.

Two windows were reported broken at Pearson Construction company office, 240 West Britain avenue, to Benton Harbor police. Damage to the windows was estimated at $140.

SAYS PENETRATOR DIDN'T SAVE BH

Editor,
The many industrial plants across the river have "Bitten the Dust" for different reasons than your editorial implies. After all, they had a penetrator off of 1-94.

As for the interceptor, your paper can take it and stick it where it belongs.

P.S. Did the penetrator save downtown Benton Harbor? Can you? Open your eyes to reality for a change — to what is going on around you!

TAKES ISSUE WITH EDITORIAL

Editor,
Your June 25 editorial concerning the penetrator has certainly left us bewildered and frustrated. How misinformed can an editor get?

Concrete Opposition Unlimited has as members intelligent, level-headed individuals who have made up their OWN MINDS that the penetrator would not be beneficial in this area. The "township masterminds," namely, Orval Benson, had nothing to do with the formation of COU and we're frankly offended that it was thus implied. A grave injustice has been done by inferring that the people of this community are not capable of thinking for themselves — and that COU is a "stalking horse organization." (Refer to your article on June 21, page 3).

Gregg Johnson speaks for himself as a concerned citizen and not as a spokesman for Auto Specialties, his employer. It is not surprising that his job was incorrectly stated — he's not the product controller — since there were few, if any, accurate facts in the entire editorial.

In the second paragraph it mentioned the connector road between "Washington and Cleveland Avenues to the city limits." Anyone even a little bit interested in the penetrator knows that it is not Cleveland, but Lincoln Ave. (Refer to your article and map, June 21, page 11).

We find the comparison with Moses highly tacky. Should we feel that you're comparing Orval Benson to Moses?

We also object strongly to your referred to the wording of the petition as "cleverly drawn." In no way did this imply that taxes would be raised, only that $6,000,000 would be spent! When you later said that "some other community will receive the money," you really came close to the truth as to why this penetrator is being pushed on us. Why should some other community not have the funds? Some city, we're sure, must be in dire need of money for a road! Are we in such a situation?

It is our feeling that to "unravel the traffic freeze which congests St. Joseph" something other than the penetrator should be initiated. The penetrator, in its present planning stage, will only add more confusion to an already congested area at Niles Ave. Maybe the problems existing in St. Joseph are not the result of a poor traffic flow but of poor city management.

We live in the township and it is true that the township board is opposed to this road. However, this does not give the paper liberty to erroneously connect the board with COU, or to assume that Orval Benson is behind the effort, or, in fact, to belittle him in his endeavors.

Although your editorial was highly misleading, grossly exaggerated, and certainly not to be compared with the brilliance of Thomas Jefferson, hopefully it did help to heighten public awareness in this matter.

DO YOU MOVE FREQUENTLY?

No. 687...Are you constantly moving to another strange apartment? Sick of it? Want something you can call home? We have it! It's 12x80, $6,500, has two bedrooms, double insulation and can be moved. That's right, it's a mobile home, and we think you'll really enjoy coming home to this after a hard day's work instead of some cubby-hole apartment. Call today. P.S. Remember, with a mobile home there are no taxes or water bills.

EXTRA SPECIAL

No. 685...Two fireplaces, kitchen-family room combo, rec. room, two car garage, custom built birch cabinets, panelling, central vacuuming, three bedrooms, and green house. You've just seen this house through our words, now come see it with your own eyes, call us today.

BEAUTIFUL PRICE BEAUTIFUL HOME

No. 670...Only $22,900 for this two bedroom ranch with 11x12 dining room and living room with fireplace. Large bay windows give you a great view of the outdoors and quiet little wishing well in the front yard. The owners will include the air conditioner in the living room and the fireplace equipment with the sale of the home. Call us today for an appointment to see.

THREE BEDROOMS FIREPLACE

No. 692...In this home on a ravine lot. Living room with fireplace, 10x11 family room and three nice size bedrooms. There's a creek running through the property, and you know how much kids like creeks. Call us today, we're always here to help.

SUPER SHOPPER: Mrs. Adrienne Zeidner, volunteer consumer deputy, looks over pamphlet she passes out to merchants. GOVERNMENT 'SUPER SHOPPERS' Volunteers Search For Violations

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Adrienne Zeidner is a supershopper. Armed with a list and a letter of introduction from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, she searches the aisles of retail stores for dangerous toys and other banned products.

Mrs. Zeidner's official title is "volunteer consumer deputy." She is one of several thousand such volunteers across the country who help the government make sure that stores are complying with safety regulations.

The program started two years ago when the Product Safety Commission enlisted the volunteers to check during the Christmas season for toys that were on the agency's banned list. Since then, according to the commission, volunteers have checked more than one million stores.

About 1,000 deputies were sent into the field this spring to survey sleepwear displays in connection with new commission standards on flammability and another group of volunteers will be making sure that containers for potentially dangerous items like oven cleaner are "childproof."

The 14 regional commission offices recruit volunteers through community and charitable groups. The commission provides training, letters of introduction that volunteers present to store managers and information on what to look for.

Mrs. Zeidner, director of the Up County Consumer Information Center in suburban Mount Kisco, N.Y., became a volunteer deputy last fall. She and other participants who signed up for the two-hour training session were given an alphabetical list of banned products and their manufacturers. They were told what they could — and could not — do.

"You're a consumer educator," said Mrs. Zeidner, who added that managers of the dozen or so stores she has visited have been generally cooperative.

The deputies have no legal authority. They must get the okay of the store manager to inspect an outlet. If they find a product displayed in violation of commission regulations, they explain the situation to the manager, show him the rule involved and ask him to remove the item from the shelves. If he refuses, the deputies report the store to the commission.

Some of the things Mrs. Zeidner finds are covered by common sense rather than formal rules. "We were checking stock in one store when we found tacks for golf shoes near party favors right in reach of a child," she recalled. "We asked the manager to move the sporting equipment and he did."

Mrs. Zeidner said she sticks fairly closely to the prepared introduction given her by the commission. "I am a consumer deputy and I wish to conduct a in her introduction, Mrs. Zeidner explains she is not an employee of the commission, but is simply a volunteer — and a consumer."

Mrs. Zeidner, who has two children, a 7-year-old boy and a

5-year-old girl, brings her safety work home with her. Her children, she said, tell her what toys are safe. "They are almost brainwashed ... I have tuned them out of TV commercials and into safety." She said the work of the volunteer deputies is necessary. "If laws are passed you have to have a group such as ours to make sure they're enforced. Otherwise, what good are they?"

Mrs. Zeidner now is looking at sleepwear displays. A new federal flammability standard for children's sleepwear, sizes 7 to 14, took effect May 1. An earlier regulation covered children's sleepwear sizes 0 to 6x.

Under the rules, all children's sleepwear, up to size 14, manufactured or imported after May 1 must be flame-resistant. Sleepwear in sizes 7 to 14 also must carry a label reading: "Flame resistant — U.S. Standard FF 5-74."

Garments manufactured or imported before May 1 not complying with the standard must be displayed separately and both kinds of sleepwear must be identified with signs in letters at least one inch high.

Education Board Appeal Denied

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Court of Appeals has upheld a ruling that the strike-plagued Garden City School District does not have to provide a full term of instruction to students for the 1974-75 school year.

The appeals court upheld a decision of Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman, who turned down a suit by the state Board of Education that the district conduct more than the 158 days agreed to a labor contract between the local school board and Garden City teachers.

The state board filed suit to make the district provide the maximum possible days of student instruction for the 1974-75 school year. That was 176 days at the time of the suit and 170 days now, the appeals court said.

State law requires a minimum 180-day school year schedule.

Kaufman dismissed the state Board of Education's complaint.

At the time state board's suit was filed, it was already impossible to hold the statutorily mandated minimum 180 days instruction because of the prolonged strike, the appeals court said today.

"Had 180 instructional days been possible, a clear legal duty would have rested upon the district board to comply with the statute," the appeals court said.

The district was hit by a lengthy school strike in the fall of 1974. The local board and teachers finally agreed to a labor contract which provided for 158 days of instruction. The state Board of Education filed a complaint to order the district to provide the 180 day minimum.

"The district did all it could under the circumstances since it could not comply with the statute," the appeals court said.

Jazz Man Hates Country Music

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music is "a national disgrace," jazz musician Stan Kenton said, adding that he hates almost everything Nashville stands for.

"I hate country and western music. It is ignorant music and perverted music. I abhor it," Kenton said in a telephone interview with the Nashville Banner.

Panel Recommends New State Capitol

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan needs a new state Capitol and should not keep pouring money into the old one, the state Building Commission said Wednesday. The commission also asked officials to request an opinion from the attorney general as to whether it is legal to have the main headquarters of several state agencies outside Lansing's city limits. Lansing officials have sued the state to keep it from moving other offices outside the city. The commission said it favors building state facilities on several blocks of state-owned land just west of the 94-year-old state Capitol. The state rents nearly one million square feet of office space in scattered locations around Lansing, noted the commission, an advisory body to Gov. William Milliken.
